GIRL STABBED BY MYSTERY ASSAILANT

Stabbed twice in the back by an unknown spurned suitor, May Oberlander, 17, of Hyde Park avenue, Hyde Park, cousin of "Swede" Oberlander, former Dartmouth football star, was dying today at the Faulkner Hospital.

The girl was twice attacked by the "mystery" suitor as she walked through the Arnold Arboretum on her way to work early this morning.

She dragged herself to the South street entrance of the arboretum where she collapsed.

She was placed on the danger list.

She told her family that she had seen the man who attacked her only twice. He accosted her near Forest Hills Monday night and tried to make a date, she said, but she refused.

MAN FLEES IN FEAR

He was seated on a bench near the Arboretum Pond today as she passed through on her way to work, she said. As she neared him he jumped from the bench and again asked her for a date.

When she again refused, she said he struck at her with a sharp instrument, hitting her in the back. As he struck she said he shouted:

"Now will you go out with me."

She stated that when he lunged at her a second time she cried:

"I will have to ask my boy

HORNSBY FIRED BY BROWNS

St. Louis, July 21 (AP)—Donald L. Barnes, president of the St. Louis Browns, today announced that Manager Rogers Hornsby had been relieved of his duties effective today.

The president of the American League Baseball Club said Hornsby's contract, which ran through the 1938 season, was so written it could be "broken at the discretion of the club."

HAPPY—RIFT ENDED

MR. AND MRS. PAUL J. LONGO
Trying to Forget "Goldfish" Row

Youthful Longos Together in New Winchester Home

With the bitterness of the past leavened and trying to forget it all, Paul Longo and his pretty, 20-year-old wife Edith, have been reconciled, the Boston Evening American learned exclusively today, and have been back together again since January.

Only last year they battled in the courts, a war of recriminations, accusations and denials ending with her failure to secure a divorce.

But now, in a home in Chesterford road, east, at Winchester, Paul and Edith are very happy, the Evening American discovered—and there is even another goldfish bowl, with goldfish, in the new living room.

It was partialy around the Longo family goldfish that the divorce testimony centered.

Confirming the fact of their reconciliation, Mrs. Longo also revealed today that she is an expec-

Barkley Leader As Court Foes Redraft Bill

BULLETIN

Washington, July 21 (AP)—Senator Wheeler (D.) Montana, after a conference with Vice-President Garner today, said opponents of the Roosevelt court bill would draft a compromise dealing only with the lower courts and submit it to the administration. Supreme Court enlargement would not be involved.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, July 21—Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky was elected Democratic leader of the Senate today to succeed the late Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas.

He won by the narrowest of margins, 38 to 37, and then upon motion of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, his rival, the election was made unanimous.

Intense excitement pervaded the meeting as the ballots were counted, and the tally finally stood 37-37, with one vote uncounted. That vote won for Barkley. As it was read out there was a burst of applause.

Flanagan, Codman Aide, Freed by Judge

Thomas J. Flanagan, accountant and stockholder of the Codman Hill Construction Company, who was fined $500 and jailed for contempt of court for failing to produce the company's books for the finance commission investigation, was released today by Judge Harold P. Williams.

The release order signed by the superior court judge did not affect the status of William J. Driscoll, president of the company, who was similarly fined and jailed. Driscoll remains in Charles street jail.

A brief hearing on Flanagan's petition for release, took place before Judge Williams in his lobby, while the Finance Commission marked time, waiting to hear more testimony from Attorney Edmund R. Mansfield, brother of Mayor Mansfield.

Following Attorney Mansfield, who is being questioned about work done on his home by Driscoll, the next witness was to be Eliot Wadsworth, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and mem-

Mother, Sister Offer Blood to Plunge Girl

Heartbroken over the tragedy, the mother and sister accused in the beating of Alice E. Gallo, 18, in their North End home, volunteered their blood today in a desperate attempt to save her life in City Hospital.

Although doctors have little hope for recovery of the girl who plunged 45 feet to a concrete areaway, with her hands bound, to escape the alleged beating, the transfusion was decided upon.

Despite previous reports, she had not yet been given a blood transfusion, nor had her fractured skull been operated upon, surgeons fearing the consequences of such an operation in her weakened state.

When word that a transfusion was necessary reached the Gallo home in North Margin street, Mrs. Antoinette Gallo and Alice's sister, Philomena, both now under the police charges, declared eagerly that they would go immediately to the hospital and offer themselves.

Their offers were echoed by the father, James Gallo, and the son, Nicholas, 17, who said they also would go to the hospital and offer Alice their blood.

Doubt was expressed by the father, however, that Philomena could be of service in the emergency, as she has not been in good health.

HUNT BAY STATE MILITIAMAN

EXCLUSIVE!

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1937, by the Boston Evening American)

Providence, July 21—A box of 24 bullets of exactly the same type as the two which killed Dr. George W. Webster has been found within 125 feet of the Webster home, the Boston Evening American learned exclusively today.

Through the firearms company which manufactures them, the bullets were traced. This particular box and four others were shipped to a Boston sporting goods firm. All five boxes have been sold.

Two of the boxes have been accounted for. It is now only a question of hours, authorities are confident, before they will have traced down the person or persons who bought the other three cartons.

Confirmation of this exclusive story came after the Boston Evening American was on the streets. Captain Thomas F. Rattigan, chief of detectives, called in other reporters and told them of the find when he read the American.

But at the same time this newspaper learned, as well, that Massachusetts state police have been enlisted in a search for a Bay State National Guardsman who was in Providence on the day of the slaying and has been missing from his home since Saturday.

Until the last purchaser or possessor of the bullets found near the Webster house is identified beyond question there is no connecting link between the find and the search for the guardsman, as far as is known.

On the other hand, the extreme importance which authorities place upon securing this man for questioning indicates that they have some valuable clues which they are still keeping secret.

A confidential teletype message was dispatched to state police headquarters in Boston late last night asking that this man be "picked up" for Providence.

GONE SINCE SATURDAY

Following this message a detective from this city went to Boston personally with a letter containing a full description of the wanted man and other official information.

WASHBURN SET FOR ALASKAN PEAK CLIMB

Valdez, Alaska, July 21—Bradford Washburn, Cambridge, Mass., veteran explorer and Alaskan mountain climber, was today camped at the foot of the ice-sheathed Mount Lucania, towering 18,000 feet into the sky, the last challenge of the "ice age" to man in North America.

Washburn, a member of the Harvard School of Geological Exploration, was accompanied by Robert Bates, of Philadelphia, the two of them squatting at the base of the mountain with 100-day rations. The two explorers plan to attempt an ascent of the peak as soon as weather permits.

The two mountaineers were carried to their positions by a plane. Swirling snowstorms drove back Russell Dow of Woonsville, N. H., and Norman Bright of Sunnyvale, Cal., who reached Valdez yesterday and abandoned their attempt to climb Mount Lucania.

Upward to the peak, Washburn and Bates will carry elaborate equipment for aerial photography. Every other expedition, including that of the American Geographical Society, in 1935, has been turned back by freezing weather and treacherous footing.

Parson Hits 'Duke King' Report

Rev. Mr. Jardine Scouts "Statement"

New York, July 21 (INS)—With self-admitted "force and vehemence," unusual in the mouse-like little English parson who united the Duke and Duchess of Windsor in matrimony, the Rev. Mr. Anderson Jardine today denied prophesying an attempt by former King Edward VIII to regain the British throne in the event something should "happen" to King George VI.

Irritated by dispatches allegedly quoting the "poor man's parson" as assuming the role of a prophet, which were not carried by International News Service, the clergyman issued a formal denial of the printed reports. He said:

"I deny, with all the force and vehemence at my command, the statement attributed to me while at Lake Placid. This statement, which appeared in the press Sunday, was to the effect that I said that the Duke of Windsor might make a 'bid' for the throne of England, should anything 'happen' to George VI.

"Such a question has been put to me several times since my arrival in America, and each time I have stated my belief that the Duke of Windsor is too great a peacemaker to cause internal strife in the country he so much loves.

"It is a foolish thing to ask such a question of me, because I have no knowledge whatsoever of the future plans of His Royal Highness the Duke of Windsor."

Nicaraguan Consul Takes Bride Here

A Pan-American romance was revealed here today with news of the marriage of Mrs. Helen Jacquet of New Orleans to Alberto Games of Washington street, Brighton, consul-general from Nicaragua.

They were married yesterday in a quiet ceremony performed by Charles A. Winslow, city clerk of Medford, in the clerk's home, Royal street.

Only witnesses to the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Lopez Callejas, counsel from Havana, Cuba.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Revoil of New Orleans. The Nicaraguan consul's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. Alberto Games.

37 Million Autos by 1960

Detroit, July 21 (AP)—Charles F. Kettering, research engineer, told the American Society of Civil Engineers today that a new highway system must be provided to accomodate 37,000,000 motor vehicles by 1960.

The number of automobiles on the highways will increase 50 per cent within the next 23 years, he said.

Eleanor Denies Romance; Plans Talk With Art

Cleveland, July 21 (AP)—Vivacious Eleanor Holm Jarrett, who nearly scuttled the Olympics boat and then rocked her own marriage ship, said today she's having a second discussion with her singing husband, Art Jarrett, about a divorce.

She promptly denied rumors of a romance with Billy Rose, producer of the kaleidoscopic lakefront show where she swam before a capacity audience last night to the tune of "Happy Holiday to Love," with:

"What has poor Billy got to do with it?"

The 23-year-old backstroke champion, who explained that original discussion was confined to the "calm conversation of two people interested in their futures," said she was making a new telephone call to her husband at the Dallas Exposition.

"I'm going to call up Arthur and talk to him further," she said.

"CALM DISCUSSION"

Mrs. Jarrett, vexed at the stir created by her marital affairs, said she had "nothing to add" to her statement that "we had a calm discussion on the phone about working apart all of the time."

Rose, who asserted in New York "I am married to Miss (Fanny) Brice and I intend to stay so," was expected by officials at the Great Lakes Exposition to return to his Cleveland show "within a few days." Miss Brice, the stage comedienne, was in California but could not be reached.

The gracefully proportioned Eleanor played to a "standing room only" crowd last night in the four-act production.

She drew applause as she appeared first in a bespangled blue bathing suit in the arms of Bob Lawrence, baritone, formerly with Paul Whiteman's orchestra. A short time later, the "eight men of Manhattan" vied for her smiles and again there was applause from the 5000 eagerly-watching spectators.

BOUGHT OWN RUG

As the orchestra played "Happy Holiday to Love," she used the methodical, distance-eating strokes which gave her a place on the 1928 American Olympics team at the age of 14—the same strokes which a champagne-drinking episode on her German-bound liner kept from the 1936 Olympics.

It was an $1800 diamond ring which she wore in Cleveland Saturday which started the discussion about her and Rose, she guessed. But she vehemently declared "I bought the ring a year and a half ago with my own hard-earned money."

"My goodness, Rose's married," she asserted. "Happily married."

'Ungallant' to Talk, Says Art Jarrett

Dallas, July 21 (AP)—Handsome Art Jarrett, film and radio singing star, said today it "would be very ungallant on my part to make any sort of comment" on reports that his wife, Eleanor Holm Jarrett, swimming champion had discussed a divorce.

When Jarrett, star of the Pan-American Casino show here, was told that his wife had admitted in Cleveland today that she had discussed the matter, he said:

"Situations like this are extremely personal and require considerable tact. It would be very ungallant on my part to make any sort of comment. I do not care to discuss my domestic affairs in public prints nor do I intend to do so. This will be the extent of any reference to the subject by me. I believe most people will understand my position."

No. 1 Outlaw Kidnaps Teacher

Posse Closing In On Southwest Bad Man

Durant, Okla., July 21 (AP)—Pete Traxler, the southwest's No. 1 bad man, kidnaped a teacher near Caddo, Okla., today and fled north, after breaking through a cordon of officers in the Washita river bottoms, near here.

A posse of state patrolmen speeding in pursuit was reported close behind the desperado and his companion on a country road.

The teacher, Frank Trimmer, was held up at his home three miles east of Caddo and forced to accompany the escaped Texas convict in his car.

FIRST SEIZE FARMER

Earlier the outlaws had forced their way into the home of a farmer, J. E. Benton, 25 miles southwest of Durant, dragged him out of bed and made him go with them on a dizzy flight in his car.

They pierced the posse's patrol on a narrow lane near Durant and pulled up at the home of Trimmer, a country school teacher. As Trimmer's terrified family watched helplessly, the fugitives fled with him and left Benton behind. Trimmer was soon released.

While Traxler's wife, attractive Nell Traxler, was held in jail at Durant, the escaped convict fought desperately to get out of the rough country where officers had driven him after her capture.

RACE THROUGH TOWNS

After racing through Durant at terrific speed, Traxler and his pal cut a zig-zag trail through the town of Armstrong, then wheeled east to Caddo. State patrolmen said they passed through a back alley in Caddo at 85 miles an hour.

Traxler's wife said she believed he never would be taken alive.

10-MILE CIRCLE

The posse, numbering both Texas and Oklahoma officers, began a giant encircling movement, flinging a cordon of armed patrols along roads and through the underbrush and timber of an area about 10 miles in diameter in which the desperadoes are believed hiding.

Traxler's companion, described by Mrs. Traxler as "Fred," is believed to be Fred Tindol, who with Traxler and seven others broke from the Huntsville, Tex., prison farm July 8.

Three officers, Deputy Sheriff J. R. McLaughlin and Ben Risner of Bryan county and Constable Green Beams of Kingston, Okla., came upon the two prison breakers and Mrs. Traxler at the dead end of a little-used Washita river bottom road.

CAR RIDDLED

The officers opened fire, riddling the Traxler car.

"Pete told me I'd better run," Mrs. Traxler said after her capture, "but when the firing began, I fainted and when I woke up Pete was gone and officers were gathered around."

The two fugitives jumped from the machine and ran into the timber. Other members of the posse tracked Traxler and his companion in the soft earth of the river bottom a short distance, then lost the trail.

Death Bullets In R. I. Slaying Traced Here

Massachusetts state police would not talk about it.

It was learned, however, that the family and friends of the guardsman were questioned by detectives and that they insisted that the man had not been home since Saturday.

His home is in a community close to the Massachusetts-Rhode Island line and he is known to have been a frequent visitor to Providence within the past few months. He was definitely placed there on Friday.

Known, too, is the fact that police were told that this man is of an excitable and jealous disposition and that he became incensed at anyone paying the slightest attention to a girl with whom he was in love.

BULLETS VITAL CLUE

From the first they have interested authorities. They are of .45 caliber, with a brass-copper alloy jacket, known to ballistic experts as a "metal-piercing" type.

They are manufactured by the Remington Firearms Company of Bridgeport, Ct., and it was to this factory that detectives went with their find.

Serial numbers on the box and a peculiar marking on the shells readily identified the lot to the Remington officials.

Through a check of records it was found that 200 boxes of these bullets have been manufactured recently and that all but the five which were shipped to Boston had been dispatched to points west of New Haven.

IDENTIFY SLUGS

Sergeant Edward Crowley, one of Providence's ace detectives, was at the factory today with the two slugs that were taken from Dr. Webster's body, the one that was found in the cellar of the Webster home and the three exploded shells that were found in the hall.

Police said an examination of these convinced Remington experts beyond a doubt that they were from one of the boxes in the recently-manufactured lot.

All of this information bore out a theory of Captain Charles J. Van Amburgh, Massachusetts state police ballistics expert, that the murderer could be traced through the bullets.

SECRET CHECK ON BOXES

Captain Van Amburgh said at the same time, that the killer need not necessarily have been a man. A woman who had some knowledge of firearms could have squeezed the trigger on the .45 automatic that fired the fatal shots, he explained.

It was Crowley who was in Boston within the last 24 hours making a secret check of the five boxes shipped here.

He and officials of the sporting goods house interviewed such salesmen as were on the premises at the time and from two of them learned what had happened to two of the boxes.

One salesman recalled selling a box to his brother, a Belmont resident. Another recalled a sale to a man who lives in Winchester. Neither man had the slightest connection with the Webster case, Crowley declared.

The field was thus narrowed down. Who had bought the other three boxes of bullets?

If these were single sales, the answers would lie in an elimination process, but comparatively simple.

A number of salesmen on the road for the Boston firm were still to be heard from after word was sent out telling what police wanted. Their reports are expected hourly.

MILTON MAN CHECKS

One of those outside salesmen, William B. Quincy of Laurel road, Milton, Mass., was in Provincetown. His territory includes most of southern Massachusetts and Cape Cod.

He was unable to recall, offhand, whether or not he had sold a box of the bullets in question, but promised to check on his personal record as soon as he could get home.

Once again, as all this was going on, the bundle of laundry which police have variously considered and then eliminated from the probe, figured again today.

From what detectives have learned now, it is thought that perhaps Dr. Webster did, after all, visit his offices in Broad street the night of the murder.

Mrs. Ethel Reynolds, sister of the owner of the drugstore in which Dr. Webster was believed to have spent from 8 p. m. Thursday to 1 a. m. Friday, told detectivest hat it may have been 9 o'clock when the doctor appeared there.

TIME FOR CHANGE

If that were so, the doctor would have had time to go to his offices after returning from the trip he took to Jamestown.

He might even have changed his shirt and underclothing there, police said. The fresh laundry bundle showed that it had been opened and these garments removed.

It was wrapped in a copy of a Thursday afternoon newspaper and was found on a table in the Webster house the morning of the murder.

The newspaper thus dated the time the bundle was opened—sometime late Thursday.

Dr. Webster had left his office at three o'clock that afternoon, presumably to go directly to Jamestown to see Dr. Richard Arlen. But he didn't get to Jamestown until 6 p. m., a distance of little more than 30 miles.

Dr. Webster stopped off at Simmonds' drugstore on his way out of the city to have a sandwich, police were told. He didn't change his clothing there.

In addition to everything else, police still have at least half of this 3 p. m. to 6 p. m. period to account for and the change of clothing makes it harder.

If the doctor had gone to his offices—and Miss Dorothea Gilligan, his secretary, says he had no appointment that night—the question that puzzled investigators anew was—why?

With whom did he have an appointment there? Someone who failed to appear? Was he waiting around Simmonds' drug store all that evening expecting a telephone call to explain why that person did not keep the appointment? He is reported to have received many telephone calls in that drug store.

These points and dozens of other questions that arose from this angle kept detectives busy trying to find the answers.

APPOINTMENT QUESTION

They talked to Miss Gilligan again about it. She insisted that there was no appointment scheduled for that night, and Dr. Webster had insisted to Dr. Arlen in Jamestown, he had such a date.

Then there was the report of the blonde woman seen at the ferry at Saunderstown. This was the ferry used by Dr. Webster in crossing to Connecticut Island, on which Jamestown is situated.

The story which came out of Saunderstown was that this blonde woman was dropped off a coupe bearing a doctor's insignia at 5:40 last Thursday and that she waited around until she was picked up by the machine at 7:30 o'clock.

Five persons, according to police, recall seeing the woman and seeing the machine with the doctor's insignia.

GUARD DESCRIPTION

Dr. Webster did cross to get to Dr. Arlen's house in Jamestown. He arrived there at about 6 o'clock. He returned to the island side of the ferry and took the 7:10 boat back to Saunderstown. Therefore, police are inclined to believe the machine must have been Dr. Webster's.

If this story is proved correct, detectives said, it would furnish the reason why Dr. Webster told Dr. Arlen he had to return to Providence to keep an appointment.

The widow, Mrs. Kathryn Craig Webster, was extremely indignant at these latest reports to authorities and declared that she did not believe any story of a woman having been with her husband.

"He was a devoted husband and father," she said. "He was devoted to his medical studies and had a tremendous interest in every one of his cases. I refuse to believe any of these things. They're just rumors."

Another angle in the case which has been assigned to detectives now canvassing the Webster neighborhood in Emeline street is further investigation of the story of Arthur Davis, a resident of adjoining Forest street.

Davis, exercising his dog, said that he remembered seeing two men at the door of the Webster home sometime between 10 and 11 o'clock on Thursday night. It was at 1:27 a. m., Friday, that the doctor was shot to death.

Further investigation is also being made of the report of Dr. Hugh J. Hall that a man, whose wife had died in childbirth, had threatened him with a .45 automatic pistol a short time ago.

Dr. Webster was associated with Dr. Hall in this case, police said, but Dr. Hall, informed by his friend of the threats, just laughed. Dr. Webster afterwards attended one of the man's relatives, according to the report.

Jewish Legion Praises Hearst Palestine Stand

Jewish war veterans, who fought with the British Expeditionary Forces in Palestine during the World War, today joined with Greater Boston Jewry in hailing the stand taken by the Hearst newspapers against the British plan to partition Palestine.

At the same time local Jewish leaders continued to hail the statement of David Lloyd George, former prime minister of Great Britain, made to the Hearst newspapers last Sunday, in which he denounced the British Royal Commission's report.

Representing thousands of American Jewish men in Greater Boston who fought in Palestine under the British flag, on the promise Palestine would be turned over to the Jews if England was victorious, Samuel Shuman of Mattapan made the statement to the Boston Evening American.

HEARST THANKED

Shuman is commander of the Veterans of the Jewish Legion, Palestine Division of the World War. He said:

"May I, in behalf of the Veterans of the Jewish Legion, composed of young men who enlisted in the United States to fight in Palestine with the British Expeditionary Forces, take this opportunity of thanking William Randolph Hearst and the Boston Evening American for the stand taken on the Palestine situation.

"As a veteran and one who has been disabled while in the service of the British Army in Palestine, and having joined only because of the fact that England faithfully had promised to return Palestine to the Jews if victorious, I cannot conceive such a great nation as England going back on its promise.

"Some four thousand American Jewish young men, who fought with me in Palestine, are not only disappointed, but heartbroken over England's decision.

"Let not England forget that the Jewish race has built a paradise out of mosquito-infested swamps that brought death and destruction to its inhabitants.

"On the other hand what have the Arabs done to deserve the part of Palestine allocated them?

"Their type of people are satisfied to live in the desert. From experience, I know there is other land England could have allocated to the Arabs that would have been better suited.

"As commander of the Veterans of the Jewish Legion, I decry this broken faith of a great nation like England.

"I sincerely hope and trust that when this matter comes before the League of Nations they will see fit to grant the Jews a larger proportion of land in Palestine and benefit the world at large.

LASKER COMMENTS

"Our heartiest thanks to the Honorable David Lloyd George for having the courage to speak his mind on the Palestine question."

David Lasker, prominent Jewish leader in the Dorchester-Mattapan district and a member of the Zionist organization, also commented on the current situation.

Lasker, chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, said:

"I am keenly disappointed in the policy of expediency which Great Britain has adopted in Palestine. The British tradition for 'fair play' has been violated by the Royal Commission and the government.

"Under the present partition it is impossible to create any such homeland as was conceived by those leaders of world Jewry, who negotiated with Lord Balfour. This segment of Palestine can never hold the millions of persecuted Jews of Europe, who must find some haven, where they can live as human beings.

"This proposal is especially unfair when one realizes the tremendous gains which the Arabs received after the World War.

"Originally Palestine consisted of what is known as Palestine and Transjordania. Not only did the Arabs receive Transjordania but also new Arab kingdoms, stretching from the Arabian Sea to Palestine—an area many times larger than even an undivided Palestine.

"Haven't they had enough?

"The Balfour Declaration was legally recognized by the nations of the world when the British received a mandate over Palestine.

EFFORT WASTED?

"Encouraged by the mandate, the Jews have poured all the resources of man-power and capital into the land. The return to Zion wrought wonders in the Holy Land. Must all this effort be wasted?

"For over 2000 years Europe has heaped injustice and persecution upon the Jews.

"The history of the world holds no parallel to such sustained suffering on the part of a people. If civilization has a conscience, it must now express it by making restitution for the horrible mistakes of the past.

"Justice demands that the Royal Commission's recommendations be repudiated.

"William Randolph Hearst, as he always was, is again championing the cause of the Jewish race. He is owed a vote of thanks by the Jews of America for affording them the space in his many newspapers, calling the attention of the world to their cause."

ADDS PROTEST ON PALESTINE

DAVID H. LASKER

By WILLIAM GREEN

(Distributed by Universal Service)

Washington, July 21—The recent disturbing proposals made by the British royal commission affecting the fate of Palestine call for a statement of facts which may make clear to all citizens of the United States what is involved in the proposed partitioning of the Holy Land.

Palestine, to Christians and Jews alike, is a sacred land, a land of religious interest and of divine promise. To us all it truly is a Holy Land. Therefore anything that affects it affects us all.

America's entry into the World War made it possible for the Allies to wrest Palestine from Turkish domination after centuries of misrule, and America was glad to consent to Great Britain's solicitation for a mandate over Palestine.

IMPROVED LAND

The Palestine mandate was not given to Great Britain for the purpose of letting her partition the country. That mandate was conferred on her because of her promise to world Jewry, which of all people have suffered greatest at the hands of Gentiles of many lands.

Now, instead of permitting Palestine to become a haven of refuge Great Britain proposes to limit the Jews to a small territory scarcely large enough for those who already have settled there.

In defense of this inexcusable act of "political surgery" in violation of the clear terms stipulated in the mandate for Palestine, Great Britain raises the false claim that Palestine is an "Arab land."

WITHOUT MERIT

This claim is without merit, for Palestine never belonged to the Arabs but to Turkey, from whom it was wrested by the allied powers during the World War, but even if there were the slightest merit to this claim it was more than settled with the Arabs who, as a consequence of the peace settlement after the war, now rule over an area of a million and a half square miles.

Fleeing Hingham Prisoner Caught, Escapes Again

Twice today a youth escaped from custody in Hingham courthouse. Once he was caught by an officer with a rifle, but the second time he was gone with the wind.

The prisoner, arrested last night on a Nantasket boat, for an alleged disturbance, said he was Otis Smith, 23, of Columbia street, Cambridge. Police allegedly found he had a suspended sentence to Concord Reformatory hanging over him.

Immediately after being sentenced in Hingham district court to 30 days in jail he made a dash for an exit.

Seizing a rifle, Court Officer Robert Jackson went after him and overtook him in the courthouse yard. Smith, according to police, submitted only after a struggle.

For safekeeping he was locked in a basement cell with Joseph Proulx of Cambridge, who was also sentenced to 30 days for the disturbance on the boat.

Fifteen minutes later police found Proulx alone in the cell. The slippery prisoner had squirmed through a hole in the ceiling where a four-inch steampipe passes through.

Hull, Hingham and state police started a search in the woods. Edward Carney, a laundry driver, reported seeing a man answering Smith's description successfully thumbing a ride on Route 3A, bound toward Plymouth.

N. H. Business Veteran Dies

Pouring Oil on Troubled Bathers

As a result of complaints from bathers at the South Boston and Dorchester beaches, harbor police today began an investigation to determine the source of oil on the surface of the water.

Special Officer Daniel Doyle started a round of ships and waterfront establishments. The complaints were discussed last night at a meeting of the executive committee of the South Boston Citizens' Association.

COMMONS MAY DELAY VOTE ON PALESTINE

London, July 21 (AP)—A Laborite plan to sidetrack the British royal commission's proposal for partition of Palestine between Arabs and Jews gained strength in the House of Commons today as a prelude to parliamentary debate.

A former colonial secretary, Lieutenant-Colonel Leopold Stennett Amery, stepped out of the Conservative ranks to join Liberal Leader Sir Archibald Sinclair in support of a move to defer voting on the plan while a select committee gives it further study.

Morgan Jones, a Laborite, drafted an amendment to the prospective motion for approval which would defer action by the House. The royal commission's report already had drawn expressions of bitter opposition from both Jews and Arabs.

The royal commission on July 7 recommended establishment of sovereign Jewish and Arabian states in Palestine, with a new British mandate over the holy cities of Jerusalem, Nazareth and Bethlehem.

Jews have attacked the plan as preventing realization of a Jewish national home, on the ground that there would not be enough Jewish territory to permit any considerable immigration.

The dispute presaged a debate today ranging back through 2000 years to Biblical days and the subsequent scattering of Jews over the world.

Colonial Secretary William G. A. Ormsby-Gore was prepared to ask parlimentary approval of the partition proposal.

RULES CLOSED SHOP PACTS ILLEGAL

Newark, N. J., July 21 (AP)—Labor contracts providing for closed shops fall under a chancery court ban today as "illegal and unenforceable." Strikes to accomplish closed shops were condemned as "unlawful" in the same ruling by Vice-Chancellor Maja Eon Berry.

Holding that both employers and employes were "capitalistic" and therefore entitled to equal protection under the law, Berry said:

"It seems strange that at this late day it should be necessary to report that a strike which has for its objects the 'closed shop' is unlawful and that a contract providing for the 'closed shop' is illegal and unenforceable.

"The object of the strike being unlawful, all acts in support thereof, including picketing, are also unlawful."

"MOB PSYCHOLOGY

Berry handed down the written opinion yesterday to amplify a previous oral prohibition of picketing at the International Ticket Company plant on the ground a strike there was illegal because its purpose was to compel the company to operate a "closed shop."

"The tactics pursued by the defendants (the strikers) in support of their activities," Berry said, "are the natural outgrowth of the so-called liberalism of our courts in labor disputes, a policy which will eventually bring it's own retribution—the inevitable consequence of intimidation, violence and the general disregard of the rights of others incident to mob rule—the produce of mob psychology.

"Too often the ear of the court is tuned to the voice of the mob rather than that of reason. By tolerant and temporizing decisions, liberty is constantly being judicially lost.

"Within less than half a decade, more constitutional rights have been sacrificed by supine, tolerant and vacillating authority than can be gained by a century of reaction."

QUOTES U. S. DECISION

The vice-chancellor quoted from an 1902 United States Supreme Court decision, which said:

"Whatever enthusiasts may hope for, in this country every owner of property may work it as he will, by whom he pleases at such wages and upon such terms as he can make; and every laborer may work or not, as he see fit, for whom, at such wages as he pleases; and neither can dictate to the other how he shall use his own, whether property, time or skill."

Elder Trial May Be Opened Today

Greenfield, July 21—Trial of former Dean Thomas E. Elder of the Mt. Herman School for Boys on charges of assault on S. Alan Norton, his former colleague, drew near today, with only one case on the Superior Court docket preceding his.

Six defendants in other cases changed their pleas of not guilty to guilty, pushing the Elder case near the top of the list. It was predicted the former dean's case would come to court either late today or early tomorrow.

Princess Born

Tokyo, July 21 (AP)—Princess Asaakira Kuni, sister-in-law of Emperor Hirohito, gave birth to a daughter today. Prince Kuni is the elder brother of Empress Nagako.

O'BRIENS SEEK ADOPTION OF CHILDREN

ATTY. MURRAY ADRIAN O'BRIEN ALICE O'LEARY MRS. O'BRIEN THOMAS O'LEARY

Boston Evening American Photos

NEWTON DEATH LAID TO WORRY

Business reverses were believed responsible today for the suicide of E. Bertram Newton, 70, realtor and trustee, of Gardiner road, Brookline. He shot himself in a chair at his office in room 421 at 60 State street. Three notes were found beside his body.

Besides the notes which told of business worries, there was notice to the police that he had taken his life with a gun borrowed from the desk of an office mate.

One of the notes was addressed to his wife, another to an insurance company, and the third to Talbot Aldrich of Tenant's Harbor, Maine, with whom he shared his office and whose gun he used.

Newton had been trustee of several large estates and within the last two years has been frequently called to California in connection with the business of managing them.

Police refused to reveal the contents of the three notes. The note to the police read:

"This is to the Boston Police Department. This gun belongs to Talbot Aldrich. I took it out of the drawer of his desk. Will you please see these letters are mailed to my relatives as addressed?"

O'BRIENS PLAN BRIEFS IN ADOPTION PLEA

Filing of court briefs were planned today as the next step in the battle of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian O'Brien, well known Boston radio singers, to win adoption of Mrs. O'Brien's two children by her first marriage.

Their adoption petition is being contested by Arthur J. O'Leary, of Highland avenue, Malden, the divorced husband of Mrs. O'Brien, known to her radio audience as Alice O'Leary.

IN HER CUSTODY

The two children, Thomas O'Leary, 9, and Alice O'Leary, 7, are now in Mrs. O'Brien's custody under terms of a divorce decree granted her in Middlesex Probate Court in 1935.

They appeared with the O'Briens yesterday in Dedham Probate Court, where the action was heard by Judge Joseph R. McCoole. O'Leary appeared with his mother, Mrs. Mary J. O'Leary, with whom he is now living.

Mrs. O'Brien, who married her present husband seven months after her divorce, has custody of her children most of the time, but O'Leary has the right to them on Saturdays and Sundays, on alternate holidays and half the summer vacation.

If the petition is granted, O'Leary could be denied the right to see his children, it was argued.

MAKES $50 ON AIR

O'Brien told the court he made $50 a week for his work on a radio program.

Any children he might have would make no difference in his treatment of the O'Leary children, he testified. Under the petition their name would be changed to O'Brien.

After a bench conference between Judge McCoole, Mrs. O'Brien, O'Leary and their counsels it was agreed briefs should be submitted to the court.

EX-POLICE HEAD HELD IN FRAUD

In the Concord district court where he formerly prosecuted offenders while he was police chief in Lexington, Edward Leavitt pleaded not guilty today to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Leavitt, who also has been police chief at Groton and Ipswich, was arrested on Boston Common on complaint of Karl Mayo, who declared Leavitt obtained $11,000 from him while both were employed at Bedford Veterans' Hospital.

Judge Howard A. Wilson held the ex-police chief in $10,000 bail and continued the case to July 28. Unable to put up bail, Leavitt was taken to East Cambridge jail.

According to police, Mayo said Leavitt first borrowed $150 from him to pay taxes on government liquor certificates left him by his father.

He continued borrowing until he owed Mayo $11,000, the plaintiff charges. Of this amount $7000 was Mayo's own, in co-operative bank shares left him by his father, and $4000 represented loans Mayo had obtained from friends and his brother.

In September, 1936, Mayo said, Leavitt gave him notes to cover the debt, but he afterwards learned the certificates did not belong to the ex-chief. Leavitt is also wanted on default warrants in Bedford, Wakefield, Lawrence and Medford.

ROXBURY CRASH INJURES GIRL

Miss Helen Donlon, 18, of Clarkson street, Dorchester, was under treatment today for a bruised forehead and injuries to both knees, following an automobile collision last night that brought a fire truck and gas company service car to the scene.

She was riding in a car driven by Conrad N. Beaudet of Gordon street, Hyde Park, which collided at Moreland and Montrose streets, Roxbury, with a machine allegedly operated by Antonio di Stefano, 27, of Bullard street, Dorchester.

Di Stefano was arrested charged with leaving the scene of an accident, after he walked into South Boston police station to report his car stolen, later admitted he was driving it at the time of the accident, according to police.

Piccard Winner On 2nd Bounce

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Whatever goes up must be some relation to Professor Piccard. The professor is now a citizen of Iowa, having established a legal residence in a tree.

The professor's flights are like the fellow who ate a bushel of clams. The only thing they prove is that it can be done.

He's got the altitude record for second bounces. But he hasn't qualified to run an elevator in the Empire State building.

Piccard managed to land with the aid of dynamite, scissors and a revolver. He seems to be a new kind of gangster without a mob.

P. S.—We hope that fellow ain't thinking of establishing passenger service.

COUNTERFEIT $10 BILLS FLOOD N. E. TRACKS

Counterfeit $10 bills of two kinds are flooding New England with horse and dog race tracks as the dumping ground, according to United States Secret Service agents, who are on the trail of the ring.

Two bills were unearthed at Suffolk Downs track, according to Harry Barker, head of the Secret Service agents in this city. The man who passed one of them was not arrested, however, as he convinced G-Men that he came innocently by them.

When he passed a counterfeit bill at the betting windows he was asked to step aside while he was questioned. He told the Secret Service men he did not know the bill was counterfeit and explained he had received it during the regular course of business.

When his roll of $500 was examined, another counterfeit $10 bill was found.

They are Arthur Carcieri and John Giacabli. Their arrest was made by James Fitzpatrick of Providence, a Secret Service agent, with the aid of Dighton police.

According to Barker the bills similar to those alleged to have been passed by the Providence youths, first appeared in New York city last September. A circular letter was issued by the government on September 21, 1936, warning agents and business men of their appearance.

They were made by photo mechanical plates which is a quick process and purported to be Federal Reserve, New York, notes of 1934, serial J. Both the face and back of the counterfeits are indistinct.

Summon CIO Head In Worcester Case

Worcester, July 21—Martin J. Walsh, CIO leader of the strike at the Reed & Prince Manufacturing Company, was ordered today to appear Friday in Suffolk Superior Court, Boston, to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court because of his alleged activities here.

The cases of Mrs. Mary Donovan Hapgood and six others charged with disturbing the peace were continued until tomorrow as several police witnesses were taking civil service examinations.

Handkerchief Clue To Mrs. Parsons

Stony Brook, N. Y., July 21 (INS)—Search for Mrs. Alice Parsons, missing heiress, was redoubled today following discovery in the woods here of a stained blue neckerchief, similar to one in her wardrobe.

Hairs were found clinging to the neckerchief. A toxicologist was to determine whether the stains were made by blood.

TROOPS DEFEND CAPE 'ATTACK' TOMORROW

Bourne, July 21—Three field units, comprising 2300 troops of the Massachusetts Military Reserve training school, moved from North Harwich to a bivouack camp along the Cape Cod Canal today, prepared for spectacular tactical maneuvers tomorrow.

Supported by the 101st Field Artillery, troops of the 101st Infantry and the 182nd Infantry will advance under cover of gunfire early tomorrow to take positions against a theoretical enemy, which will land, in force, on the beach of Vineyard Sound.

An airplane representing the 26th Aviation Corps, piloted by Lieutenant Theodore Baker and with Lieutenant Allen Thompsom as observer, will maintain radio communication with the ground forces as the artillery and infantry seek to repel attack in the colorful war games.

Black ammunition will be used to present vivid silhouette pictures of the advance of the troops, and theoretical effectiveness of the artillery barrage.

Conceived by Brigadier-General William I. Rose, the tactical problem this year presumes an enemy landing along the Cape Cod shore off Vineyard Sound from ships, with the defense troops expected to consolidate their units into a defensive position, and then move offensively against the invaders.

Umpires from the military staff of the Brigadier-General will score the battle, with only a skeleton force of the troops encamped here advancing as the enemy.

The military demonstration will end shortly after 3 p. m. tomorrow.

Washington, July 21 (US)—A new crop of workers is now on the market. With the graduation of thousands from high schools and colleges, the number of young people seeking jobs in June increased 100 per cent, the National Youth Administration reported.

Dr. Baxter Lauds College Youths

Dr. James Finney Baxter, 3d, of Harvard, new president of Williams College, who will assume his duties as mentor of that institution Sept. 1.

The so-called "nice boys" of Williams College who incurred the ire of retiring president Dr. Tyler Dennett will not find refuge in their new president, Dr. James Phinney Baxter, 3d, of Harvard, named to succeed Dr. Dennett.

"I agree with my friend, Dr. Dennett, that Williams needs and wants good men of all kinds," Dr. Baxter, professor of history and master of Adams House at Harvard, said today.

Yet college classes of young men today have few weaklings, according to the 44-year-old educator.

"The students I have observed in recent years haven't acted as though the world owed them a living. Few have been weaklings, they haven't whined. The general impression I have received has been very reassuring."

A summa cum laude graduate at Williams in the class of 1914, and a member of the board of trustees for the past three years, Dr. Baxter will assume his new duties as mentor of the college in the Berkshires September 1. He is the youngest of 10 presidents in the history of the exclusive boys' school.

It's a real fancy club they got at Turtle Creek, but the men belonging to it never mind our cutting across on our way to the fishing hole. At their regular Wednesday night socials they always serve The Wilken Family Whiskey.

Harry E. Wilken

You can't hardly set your foot inside a store but what you hear folks asking for Our Family's Whiskey. But here's a funny thing. I never saw the real tony folks asking for it up until just lately. Tom says they couldn't help but of heard how this is the personal recipe of our Family and how we've been a family of distillers since way back in the early days. But Tom says maybe they had their mind set on paying a lot for their whiskey, and Our Family's Whiskey didn't cost them enough. Well anyways, they've caught on now—and I say the more the merrier!

U.S. TROOPS SET FOR TROUBLE IN CHINA

Tientsin, July 21 (AP)—The 15th United States Infantry was ordered to stand by under full war packs today and defend the American concession and keep open the railroad to the eastern seaport of Chinwangtao as tension between China and Japan flared into new fighting.

The United States consulate urged all able-bodied American men to form a volunteer company to reinforce the garrison the army maintains here to protect American interests. Business men, whose normal life has been disrupted by the crisis, immediately began to drill and organized squads to construct fortifications.

The American action, indicating the gravity of the situation, came as the Japanese brigade commander southwest of Peiping threatened "another and more deadly blow" against the Chinese.

Similar steps to protect their nationals were taken by British, French and Italian authorities after reports were received that two American women had been shoved and kicked by Japanese sentries on guard before the embassy in Peiping.

Japan Prepares For War on Big Scale

Tokio, July 21 (AP)—The cabinet determined today to enforce by arms the alleged surrender of North China officials to demands for extended Japanese influence in the crisis-ridden area.

At the same time the privy council in plenary session approved the attack launched yesterday by the Japanese army against the city of Wanpinghsien, a western suburb of Peiping, and commended the troops for their gallantry in action.

In view of the mounting gravity of the situation Premier Fumimaro Konoye decided to hold an emergency cabinet session every noon to deal instantly with any developments. Fighting between the Japans North China garrison and the 29th Chinese army has been going on west and south of Peiping for two full weeks.

The cabinet decided that the agreement it insists the commander of the 29th Army, Gen. Sung Cheh-Yuan, made with local Japanese authorities must be carried out despite its rejection by the Chinese government. China repeatedly has declared Japan must deal with her central government at Nanking and no local truce would be recognized.

Free Roxbury Man Of Death Charge

Finding no probable cause, Judge Crehan, in Roxbury court today, dismissed a manslaughter complaint against Joseph Santos, 32, of Elm Hill street, Roxbury.

The night before the Fourth, police alleged, Santos and Frederick Wilkens, a neighbor, were drinkin. During an altercation Santos pushed Wilkens to the sidewalk. Wilkens died of a fractured skull.

During the investigation police found Santos to be living with a woman, Irene Rose, 28. They placed a statutory charge against him on which he was found guilty and put on probation.

PROVOKED OVER KICK

International News Photograph Service

Miss Carol Lathrop, Washington, D. C., girl, over whose kicking by Japanese soldier the U. S. embassy has made vigorous protests to the Japanese government.

KICKING U. S. WOMEN DENIED BY JAPAN

Peiping, July 21 (INS)—In an informal answer to a protest from the United States embassy, a Japanese embassy spokesman here today denied the charges of two American women that they had been kicked and pushed by Japanese sentries.

The complainants were Miss Carol Lathrop of Washington, D. C. and Mrs. Helen R. Jones of Detroit. They said they were "kicked and shoved around" by the sentries as they were walking past the Japanese embassy.

In denying any violence had been used, the embassy spokesman said the women were "politely" told to leave when they were seen peering behind the sandbag barricade outside the embassy.

They refused to do so, the spokesman declared, whereupon in pursuit of their duty soldiers gently but firmly pushed them away.

The spokesman flatly denied either of the women was kicked. One slipped and fell, he said, and probably "fancied" she had been kicked.

This explanation followed a formal protest by the United States embassy. Japanese officials said they regarded the affair as an "unfortunate incident" but were emphatic in their denials of undue violence.

Miss Lathrop, 18, is a guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Captain Kenneth Cornell, of the United States embassy Marine guard.

Mrs. Jones informed International News Service she did not wish any compensation for the treatment she and Miss Lathrop received, but merely desired an apology. Neither was injured.

BRITAIN DENIES U-BOAT SCARE

London, July 21 (INS)—Excitement in British naval circles over the activities of the German submarine U-34 in the English channel off Portland Bill subsided tonight with a full explanation from the admiralty.

The Press Association had reported the Nazi U-boat was compelled to rise to the surface by detonators dropped by the destroyer Wolfhound, engaged in maneuvers.

The admiralty, however, stated:

"There is no truth whatever in the report a German submarine was brought to the surface by the destroyer Wolfhound firing detonators.

"The facts are as follows:

"The destroyers Wolfhound and Walpole were exercising with the submarine Spearfish on Monday off Portland.

"While the Spearfish was submerged, the Walpole sighted a strange submarine on the surface two miles westward, steering west.

"The exercises were stopped and the Spearfish was signalled by means of charges to come to the surface.

"Subsequently the strange submarine was seen to have the number 34. It was assumed she was the U-34, on her passage up the Channel."

U. S. Girl Rescued In Mexican Desert

Mexico City, July 21 (INS)—Half dead from thirst and exposure, Jessie Kennedy, 29-year-old beauty specialist of Oklahoma City, was found by federal troops on Santa Roso ranch in the municipality of San Angel today.

Miss Kennedy had been missing since Sunday, when she fled into the dense forest surrounding the Desert of Lions after motoring there with Jose Segura, a Mexican painter, who later reported her disappearance.

Man Dead After Collapse Ex-Boxer

A man who collapsed on Newspaper Row Monday afternoon and died yesterday at Haymarket Relief Hospital, was today identified by friends as Dennis Maloney, 45, a native of the West End and former boxer who fought under the name of "Frankie" Maloney.

800 REDS SLAIN IN MADRID

Salamanca, Spain, July 21 (INS) Eight thousand Loyalist casualties in the fierce battle west of Madrid werec laimed today by Insurgent officials here. Five thousand government troops were killed and wounded in one day's fighting alone, authorities said.

Madrid, July 21 (AP)—Insurgent forces, struggling to plug a hole gouged in their lines west of Madrid by Gen. Jose Miaja's offensive, surged on the government salient from three directions today.

Their massed drive wrested a strategic hill from Miaja's milicianos, "peak 660," from which they dominated Villanueva de la Canada, a battle-scarred village about 15 miles west of Madrid and one of the early prizes of the government's two-week campaign.

The government acknowledged loss of the peak after three days of insurgent counter-attack but asserted it still held Valdemorilla and Villanueva del Pardillo, at the mouth of the "pocket" which Madrid's "milicianos" cut into the flank of the eight and one-half month old siege lines on the capital' western front.

Within the "pocket" the government still held Quijorna, Brunete and Villanueva de la Canada, east of which yesterday' struggle for "peak 660" centered.

South of Madrid and east of Navalcarnero, where other government forces are fighting to join Miaja's western front salient, the government reported its lines were held in the face of heavy counter-attack.

BARKLEY WINS SENATE POST BY 1 VOTE

eral courts reorganization program, Barkley said:

"I will devote my efforts to harmonizing the party."

Both Barkley and Harrison were in favor of the Roosevelt court reorganization bill, although Harrison had simply "gone along" for reasons of party regularity.

Although the White House officially kept hands off the leadership contest, it was no secret that it favored the selection of Barkley.

NO PLAN ON COURT

In a short formal statement, Barkley said:

"My policy will be to be the representative of the administration as well as the Senate in working out to the best of my ability the problems that face the party, the administration and the country."

Asked specifically whether he had any plan in mind for settling the dispute over the President's Supreme Court proposal, the new leader added:

"I have no comment on that at this time."

The new leader is serving his second term in the Senate and is up for re-election next year. In point of service ,he was much junior to Senator Harrison.

Barkley will be 60 years old next November. Prior to election to the Senate, he had served ten years f: the House.

SECRET CAUSUS

His election was accomplished at a Democratic caucus behind closed doors, with the full Democratic strength of the Senate voting. The only absentee was Senator Bankhead, who was at his home in Alabama because of his wife's illness. His vote, however, was cast by proxy.

After the election, Barkley posed beside Harrison for a photograph amid a group of smiling colleagues.

Harrison said to him:

"Alben, I congratulate you on your victory. We've got to fight together now as we have in the past for the progress of the country and the success of our party."

To this Barkley replied:

"Thank you, pat, for your congratulations. You and I have been fighting together since the beginning of the Wilson administration, and this is the only time in my memory where our interests were separate."

HISTORIC MEETING

The Democratic conference made history. It was one in which there were no nominations. As the session was called to order by Senator Black of Alabama, party secretary, Senator Connally of Texas, announced the Mississippi and Kentucky senators alone were candidates.

Then the balloting started. It was secret, and this secrecy was blamed by Harrison's followers for his defeat. Just prior to the election, they announced Harrison had been pledged 41 votes, more than enough to win.

One dramatic note was given the session when Senator Hayden of Arizona appeared. He left from a sick bed in the Naval Hospital here to support Harricon. He was pale and obviously ill. He rested in a nearby room and entered the caucus only after the voting started. He was cheered as he cast his ballot.

A flurry of new rumors concerning the President's court bill preceded and followed the conference. Barkley refused to make his plans known, apparently contemplating a conference with Roosevelt before committing himself.

Washington, July 21 — A new leader took command today of President Roosevelt's fateful effort to reorganize the federal judiciary system and purge the Supreme Court.

In the midst of a crisis, which seriously threatens the future solidarity of the party, Roosevelt has given Vice-President Garner virtually carte blanche authority to salvage what he can of the original program.

The ruddy Texan set to work in earnest today on his job.

GARNER TO DIRECT

Irrespective of the new Senate majority leader, it is Garner who is going to negotiate, conduct and direct the remainder of the court fight. He volunteered for the job, and the White House, sorely beset by defections and outright insurgency, gratefully accepted his aid.

The expectation is that within a week the Senate will vote to recommit the current court bill to the Judiciary Committee. Then will come negotiations over the parts to be salvaged, and in those negotiations Garner will have the deciding voice.

The blunt-spoken Texan took command within a few hours after his return to Washington from the funeral of Senator Joe Robinson. He told the President his original plan for adding up to six new justices to the Supreme bench could not pass.

tant mother and that this has added to their new found happiness.

About the divorce action neither of them likes to talk, she said, or even to think.

"It was all a great mistake," said the pretty girl who eloped, as a Lasell Seminary student, with the 25-year-old son of a Wakefield grocer.

"I made a mistake and I realize it. And my family realize it. After all, 20 is pretty young and a 20-year-old girl doesn't always know her own mind.

"But Paul and I are very happy now. We never talk about the divorce action. We never refer to it.

ALL ARE FRIENDLY

"Everything is wonderful now. Both our families are friendly with us and we are living in Winchester because it is convenient to Paul's relatives in Wakefield and mine in West Medford."

Mrs. Longo who, before her marriage, was Edith Janet Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Mitchell, blushed when the presence of the goldfish was commented upon in the large living room of the mansion-like house.

"I said one short sentence about goldfish," she replied, "and I don't think anyone will ever forget about it. But we want to. It's all over, and I hope someday it will be forgotten."

What she hopes will be forgotten was this testimony she gave in the courtroom:

"I had some goldfish. We bought them when we first went to Winchester (the old home). I liked them very much. They were pets to me. I had a name for each.

"I used to feed them and care for them and I came to like them very much. Then one day one of them died and Mr. Longo took the fish and used them for bait."

ber of the board of trustees of the George Robert White Fund.

The Codman Hill Construction Company, it has been shown, did all the White Fund's building repair work, totaling $137,000, which Mark Linenthal, an engineer, has testified was a $75,000 overcharge.

In releasing Flanagan today, Judge Williams said:

"In view of the subordinate position held by Mr. Flanagan in the Codman Hill Construction Company, I feel the sentence has been adequate."

Flanagan and Driscoll have been in jail since July 1. When ordered to produce the company's books on a subpoena, they reported the books had been stolen.

This wiped out all the records of the company, as earlier accounts had been reported destroyed in a fire.

JEOPARDIZING HIS JOB

Attorney Hubert C. Thompson told Judge Williams at today's hearing that Flanagan was a part-time employe, working days for a large power concern and that while he had the books on the night of May 4, when they were reported stolen, he never before or since had control over them.

"He was a straw stockholder, owning only one share, while Driscoll owned 98 shares and some other person held the last remaining share," said Thompson.

"When the subpoena was served he did not have legal custody of the books except the minutes of the corporation. I feel the sentence has been rather hard on him.

"He has a wife and two children and a mother. This sentence is jeopardizing his job.

"This man has never been arrested before and I am sure your honor knows that pressure would have been brought to bear on him to produce the books, if he had them. I'm sure, if he had them, he would be glad and willing to produce them."

Timilty May Defer Police Promotions

Promotions and transfers in the Boston police department, expected August 1, may be deferred by Police Commissioner Timilty until the middle of August, it was learned today.

Rehabilitation of Station 3, Joy street, West End, will not be completed until then and the commissioner has repeatedly stated he would not make the personnel changes before this station was ready for use.

Stampede Kills 41--- Chicks

Barre, Vt., July 21 (AP) — A stampede of chickens today has reduced the Charles M. Rodee flock by 41 birds.

Rodee reported that when a storm broke many of his 1000 birds rushed for the chicken house. They crowded so hard that 41 were smothered.

2 YEARS IN JAIL FOR YOUTH IN 37-SHOT CHASE

A costly sequel came in Chelsea Court today to a 15-mile chase at 75 mile-an-hour speed through Chelsea and Everett.

Joseph Waldron, 25, of Ferry street, Everett, was found guilty on five charges, sentenced to two years in the House of Correction, fined $110 and held for the grand jury in $10,000.

Waldron was captured a short time after midnight in a stolen car after he had led two Chelsea officers on a wild chase in which the siren of the police cruiser burned out and 37 shots were poured into the back of the fleeing machine.

On parole from state prison, according to police, on a sentence for breaking and entering, Waldron was charged with larceny of an auto and auto parts, failing to stop for an officer, driving so as to endanger, and having no license.

On the charges of larceny of an auto and auto parts, Waldron was held for the grand jury in $10,000 bonds. For driving to endanger, he was given two years, and for failing to stop for an officer, he was fined $100.

He pleaded not guilty to all charges.

The car Waldron was driving when he was arrested belonged to Max Freedman of Franklyn avenue, Chelsea.

Seized Youth Gives Tip on Bandits

Information, allegedly given by a Roxbury youth who said one of them "stole his girl friend," today put police on the trail of what they believe to be Boston's hotel holdup gang sought for weeks.

The youth, Clarence F. Ford, 23, of Fort avenue, was arrested in a South End poolroom by officers who declared they found a loaded revolver in his pocket.

He was held for questioning in connection with robberies and for appearance in court on the revolver charge.

Police said Ford talked freely and gave them clues which may lead to the capture of the holdup gang which has preyed upon hotels and restaurants for some weeks.

He denied, however, any knowledge of the $1000 Hotel Lenox robbery last Friday, the Hotel Victoria holdup six weeks ago, the $4000 robbery from Sam's Nantasket restaurant, the $5000 Ford payroll "stickup" in the South End and other robberies.

According to police, however, he admitted he planned participation in a series of holdups with three other men believed to be the long-sougth gang.

These robberies, police said, included one in Boston and several in New Hampshire.

Couple, Divorced in 1934, to Rewed

Married previously to the same woman, and once divorced from her in Paris, Richard Percival Hood, 65, turned up at 9:30 a. m. sharp today at City Hall and obtained a marriage license to rewed her.

His bride-to-be and wife of former years, is Mary Octavie Josephine Bellanger Hood, of New York City.

According to records at City Hall, Hood embarked on the marital seas at Hamilton, November 12, 1906 and was divorced in 1934.

friend. Here he is coming along."

There was no one in sight, but the attacker fled in the belief there was.

Police and hospital authorities have been unable to determine the type of weapon with which she was attacked.

She described the youth as between 19 and 20 years of age, swarthy, 5 feet 4 inches in height, thin, with a round face and wearing a grey suit and grey soft hat.

Police from the Jamaica Plain station combed the neighborhood but were unable to find anyone who answered the description.

Miss Oberlander will be able to identify him if he is found, police said.

Mrs. Frank Oberlander, the girl's mother, was greatly upset when she learned of the attack. She said she had just buried May's older sister Stella, adding:

"I cannot understand it. May never had a boy friend. She never went out at night. She is a good girl.

"Shet old me that she had seen the man near Forest Hills.

2 Boys Arraigned In Roxbury Breaks

Two juveniles whom police say have admitted 35 breaks in the Roxbury district and confessed to setting fire to the offices of the Troy Brothers Marble Company, Roxbury, after they had failed to crack the safe, were arraigned in Roxbury district court today.

Arraigned with them before Judge Alfred F. Hayden, was Patrick Lewis, 37, of Massachusetts avenue, Roxbury, charged with receiving stolen goods. Police say the youths sold a $19 gun stolen from the Troy Company to Lewis for $5.

New 3-Cent Stamp

Washington July 21 (AP)—Postmaster-General Farley has announced a special 3-cent stamp, will be issued September 17 in observance of the 150th anniversary of the Constitution. The stamp will reproduce a painting by J. B. Stearns depicting the signing of the historic document.

Novelist Weds

Reno, Nev., July 21 (AP)—Mrs. Fannie K. Gatchell, Ossining, N. Y., authoress known as Fannie Kilbourne, and Henry Allen Schubart, 48, formerly of New York City, were honeymooning here today, after their wedding yesterday.

Mrs. Schubart's first husband, Charles Gatchell, died some time ago.

WIDOW KNEELS AT MARCONI'S STATE BIER

Rome, July 21 (AP)—The grief-stricken Marchesa Guglielmo Marconi knelt in private services beside the bier of her world-famous husband today as Rome prepared solemn last rites for the genius who invented wireless telegraphy.

An intimate mass for members of the inventor's family was said in the Royal Academy's Galatea room, where Marconi's body lay in state surrounded by double rows of blackshirt Fascist guards.

CROWDS IN STREETS

As the marchesa arrived at the academy, throngs were gathering along streets the funeral cortege was to pass on the way to state funeral services in the church of St. Mary of the Angels.

The inventor's widow was accompanied by her mother, Countess Vezzi Scali, and by her stepdaughter, Gioia Marconi, the 17-year-old daughter of the inventor by a previous marriage.

The three women knelt near the blue-uniformed body lying on a pall of green leaves and flowers, quietly weeping during the ceremony. Others attending were Prince Torlonia, husband of the Infanta Beatriz of Spain; the governor of Rome, academy officials and high-ranking Fascists.

TRIBUTES EXTENDED

Arrangements were made for Marconi's body to lie in state an additional day after the state funeral services in order that more may add their tribute to those expressed by thousands who have filed silently by the bier.

The body will lie in state tonight and tomorrow, and then will be borne by train to Bologna for burial Friday morning.

Returns to Tech After 52 Years

After 52 years, Theodore Stebbins is back at his alma mater, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, taking a summer course.

He is one of the oldest delegates attending the spectroscopy conference now in progress at the Cambridge institution. Every day he attends a two-hour lecture on practical spectroscopy, with a laboratory session later.

Stebbins was graduated from Tech in 1886. Since that time he has been touring the Americas.

Rosalind Russell, Myrna Loy Teamed

By HARRIET PARSONS

Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, July 21—Interesting that Rosalind Russell and Myrna Loy will appear in a picture together.

You may remember that Rosalind, signed at a time when M-G-M was having contract trouble with Myrna, was rumored as "Another Loy."

Since then, of course, she has proved that she is no carbon copy of anyone. Now both girls will be seen in "The Four Marys," adapted from Fanny Heaslip Lea's magazine story.

Melvyn Douglas and Franchot Tone will have the two top male roles in this dramatic yarn with a New England background.

Harriet Parsons

Richard Thorpe will direct "The Four Marys" as soon as he completes "Double Wedding," probably in about three weeks. Louis Lighton, who did such a splendid job on "Captains Courageous," will produce.

• • •

Frank Fay will make his movie comeback in a role that is right up his alley. David Selznick has just signed Fay for one of the top spots in the Carole Lombard-Fredric March opus, "Nothing Sacred." He'll portray the m. c. of a big New York night club—a part he's played plenty of times in real life.

Incidentally, William Wellman, who is directing "Nothing Sacred," is trying to sell La Lombard on the idea of journeying over to Paramount with him for "Men With Wings," which he'll meg next.

• • •

Dolly Haas, German actress signed by Harry Cohn after her performance in an English production of "Broken Blossoms," will make her American debut in the Oscar Hammerstein musical, "Paris on Broadway." Al Werker has just been signed to direct. The little Haas, who was a child ballet artist with the Hamburg Opera Company, will sing and dance.

• • •

Line or two—Walter Huston has been testing at Warners for the role of General Goethals in "Panama Canal" with Claude Rains still the likeliest choice for Gorgas . . . Josephine Hutchinson's first on her M-G-M contract will be the lead opposite George Murphy in "This Is My Wife" . . . Big-Shot Banker Floyd Odlum's daily presence on the RKO-Radio lot is again giving rise to rumors that executive changes are in store.

A wire on my desk this morning stating that CONSTANCE WORTH (MRS. TOWNSEND TO REVIVE PLAN THROUGH STATES

Chicago, July 21 (AP)—Terming his three-year-old pension movement "far from dead," Dr. Francis E. Townsend disclosed today an impending legislative campaign in the various states.

The 68-year-old proponent of a $200-a-month pension for all persons over 60 years old made known his plans in an interview after returning from a tour through six states.

"We are going to start from the grass roots," he said, "by filing petitions with the governors and legislatures of the various states urging enactment of the Townsend plan into law through a constitutional amendment."

He said he was carrying out his campaign under provisions of Article 5 of the Constitution. It authodizes constitutional amendments on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states.

"We will pass up Congress this time," Dr. Townsend said, "and fight to have 36 states ratify our demand for a constitutional amendment."

He said circulation of the petitions had already started in Oregon and California and would be introduced "in the stronghold states of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Wisconsin very soon."

Dr. Townsend scoffed at rumors that the recent resignation of 12 recovery plan officials signaled death of his movement. "Despite the drawbacks," he said, "I am gratified at the indomitable virility of the supposed corpse."

Good Idea, But Didn't Click

He duge a one-foot ditch across the road.

It worked swell. The first car that came speeding along was virtually wrecked.

Kupiec discovered, however, that the car was one owned and driven by his own son.

GIANT PHOTO USED IN 'EVER SINCE EVE'

What is believed to be the biggest photographic enlargement ever put to a practical use was employed at Warner Bros. studios in Marion Davies' new Cosmopolitan comedy, "Ever Since Eve," co-starring Robert Montgomery, which comes to the Paramount and Fenway Theaters tomorrow.

The immense photograph—a panoramic view of San Francisco's skyline and harbor, including the full length of the western span of the baby bridge between Yerba Buena Island and the peninsula—measured 22 by 140 feet.

It was used as a backing for one of the important sets in the picture, which has a San Francisco locale.

Made by a Los Angeles enlargement company, using the so-called Shipman process, the cyclorama was composed of seven sections, each 20 feet wide and 22 feet tall. Before enlarging, each section of the panoramic view measured 8 by 10 inches and was made with a special wide-angle lens.

'GRANDPOP! JUST IMAGINE—'

Shirley Temple, scheming to win favor with Grandfather C. Aubrey Smith, decides to become a soldier herself, with Sergeant Victor McLaglen as tutor. Here you see Shirley, star of "Wee Willie Winkie," which opens at the Met tomorrow, telling a bedtime tale to grandpop.

Fear Missing Boy Foul Play Victim

Fear for the safety of Joseph Ugl, eight-year-old state ward missing from his foster home on Lowell street, Lynn, since Monday, mounted today as Lynn police announced no trace of the boy has been discovered.

At first believed a runaway, police now fear some mishap or foul play is responsible.

After first combing the city, Lynn police have now communicated with other cities and a search is being conducted on a state-wide basis.

Hunt Charlestown Missing Boy

Charlestown police today sought Paul Donovan, nine, Chappie street, reported missing from his home since early last night. He was discovered missing by his father, Thomas.

The child is light complexioned with blue eyes and brown hair. He is four feet, two inches tall and weighs 75 pounds.

'The Woman Alone' Drive-In's Feature

Weymouth's Drive-In theater, South Shore Route 3A to Nantasket, New England's first open-air auto theater, beginning today is featuring "The Woman Alone," film adaptation of the Joseph Conrad novel, starring Sylvia Sidney.

Co-starred with Miss Sydney in one of the most powerful roles in his illustrious screen career is Oscar Homolka, the Oom Paul Kruger of "Rhodes, the Diamond Master."

Lawrence Man Suicide

Lawrence, July 21 (AP)—James Slattery, 79, was found dead today in his gas-filled tenement by a neighbor. Medical Examiner John J. Deacy said he was a suicide.

BOSTON
DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

They DO say that an outing of So. Bostonians on the recent Sunday was quite somewhat in the matter of excitement and that if cool heads did not step in (and take a chance of having the noggins knocked off) the day might have ended up in even lustier fashion . . . To the column's ears it comes that Edso Carroll, the bulky So. Boston senator, was at this outing and he declared in no uncertain words for James M. Curley for mayor.

Well, everybody is entitled to his own opinion, and no Southie lad has ever quarreled with that . . . But Edso is supposed to have gone farther than just announcing for Curley and to have put the burn on Wm. J. Foley's mayoral candidacy in the matter of questioning the D. A.'s conduct in office toward certain So. Boston lads.

A number of Foley friends were moving in on him when peacemakers volunteered and blew away the clouds—this pillar is told . . . The boys in Southie never disliked a ruckus.

TAG—YOU'RE IT!

One weakness of Police Commissioner Timilty's tagless parker-slapping system ("We don't tell, but you'll find out") has just finished a five-day run, and this has to do with letting the poor sap know he's been caught sinning . . . A lad registered his car in Newton Jan. 1 and lived there two mos., moving then to J. Plain and informing the registry of his new address . . . Last Fri. the registry notified him he'd failed to appear in court as an illegal parker . . . Of course suspension of his license threatened . . .

Well, the lad rushed to court, straightened that out and informed the registry he was sweet and pure again . . . Then, to his dismay, he learned there was another one out . . . Checking that, he found (on Sat.) there was a warrant . . . And yesterday, when he combed the court clerk's office, he found a 3rd . . . All the police notices had been sent to the months-old address in Newton . . . Fooey . . .

HARANGUERS THREE:

When the leaves begin to drop off this fall (Oh, we might as well tell you) there'll be four members of Atty.-Gen. Dever's staff drop off with them (Why, is another matter) . . . What we're trying to get at is that this just about puts three of B. U.'s most famed debaters on the law-and-order side of good ol' jurisprudence . . . Judge David Rose is out in Dorchester court, Lawyer Louis Novins has a promise of one of the atty.-gen. appertments. And Rep. Jackson J. Koltz is understood to be slated for asst. U. S. atty. in cider-time.

PILLS THEIR SPECIALTY

The control of a pill factory provides the plot for "On Again, Off Again," the latest Bert Wheeler-Robert Woolsey mirthquake which comes to the RKO Boston screen on Friday.

Pill Factory Comedy at Boston

Pixilated partners in a pill factory, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey have themselves a time in their latest RKO Radio release, "On Again, Off Again," which comes to the RKO Boston Theater on Friday on the same bill with Universal's drama, "The Man in Blue."

Thoroughly unorthodox businessmen, these gay goofs stage a wrestling match to determine which is to have sole authority in operating their company. It is the loser's fate to serve as valet to the winner for the ensuing year.

Serving as Woolsey's valet, the defeated Wheeler pays a small fortune in fines for acts of insubordination while the former bends every effort to make Wheeler break his agreement to forfeit his interest in the pill factory. Through various ruses and with the assistance of a gang of thugs and a gold-digger, Wheeler out-smarts his slave-driving partner.

Marjorie Lord is cast as Wheeler's jealous sweetheart, Patricia Wilder as the gold-digger, Esther Muir as Woolsey's wife, Russell Hicks as a frantic lawyer who puts the wrestling match on a legal basis, Paul Harvey as a big business man trying to consolidate with the pill factory and George Meeker as a high pressure pill salesman.

Extra Show Daily For Met Patrons

The Met's new bill, starting Thursday and offering little Missy Shirley Temple on the screen and Martha Raye on the stage, has aroused such advance enthusiasm on the part of the theater's patrons that the management is scheduling an extra show for each weekday of the engagement. The doors will be opened at 8:45 a. m., with the first show commencing at 9 a. m., daily.

Jitney Players to Tour New England

Ethel Barrymore Colt, reported to be becoming more Barrymore than Colt with each peformance, will give Boston the opportunity to discover if she has inherited the talent of the theater's royal family a week from Saturday night.

On that evening, with the rest of the Jitney Players company, she will present the melodrama, "Lady Audley's Secret," in Brattle Hall, in Cambridge, under the auspices of the Harvard Summer School Social Union.

The company is booked for an appearance at Concord the previous evening. From the Harvard engagement, they will invade New Hampshire and Vermont for two weeks, following which they will go to Magnolia for a performance at the Oceanside Hotel on Thursday, August 12.

The company comes to the East for their Concord engagement from a seven-weeks' tour of the South and Middle West, which took them into twenty states for a total distance of more than 6000 miles.

This summer marks the fifteenth anniversary of the Jitney Players, founded in 1922 by the late Bushnell Cheney and his wife, Alice Keating. It is the oldest touring repertory theater in America.

Comedy Headlines Bowdoin's Bill

"Let's Get Married," rollicking comedy featuring Walter Connolly, Ida Lupino and Ralph Bellamy, is the feature picture on the Bowdoin Square theater screen for today, tomorrow and Friday.

The companion picture, "Elephant Boy," is adapted from Rudyard Kipling's Asiatic adventure story of an inseparable friendship between a little boy and the largest elephant ever seen.

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RUNYON

Copyright, 1937, King Features Syn., Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved. Distributed by Universal service.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 21—Many of the permanent inmates of this quaint little old town in the foothills of the Adirondacks have moved, or are making ready to move, to temporary habitation for the next 30 days.

It is a curious hegira that has been taking place here annually for upwards of 75 years. The horse racing season opens in Saratoga next week, and it is the custom of the Saratogians to rent their homes for the period of the races to the visitors.

Some visitors have rented the same homes for 20 years or more. Some take a different house every season, according to the changing family requirements for space, and also perhaps according to the changing family purse.

We know Saratoga visitors who have occupied ten different houses in as many years.

ALL SIZES, ALL PRICES

The rental prices vary with reference to the size and desirability of the home, and the location. The visitors refer to all houses as "cottages."

You can get a small, comfortable house for $250, which is about the minimum, or one the size of an orphan asylum, and not so comfortable, for $3000.

The highest rental we ever heard of here was $10,000 for a most elaborate farmhouse just outside the city limits. We would guess that the average rental for a nice home is around $700, which probably goes far toward standing off the annual upkeep for the owner.

The rich old racing families, like the various branches of the Whitneys, own their houses in Saratoga, which in many cases have come down to the present generation from a racing ancestry that flourished in the great days when the California mining millionaires brought their horses here to compete against the East and the South, and when "The Spa" was the seat of American fashion and frivolity.

RUSTICATING RICH

The rich keep their Saratoga houses closed and in charge of caretakers for all but the month of August. Just now there is a great flurry of activity around these houses, with automobiles discharging cargoes of servants, and with a terrific airing out, and dusting up, going on against the arrival of the owners.

These houses of the rich are not especially elaborate, save perhaps in size. They are furnished no more expensively, and in some cases not half as comfortably, as the average upstate home of a family in fair circumstances.

From the old days of great display, Saratoga has changed to a place of almost ostentatious simplicity on the part of the rich. It is our guess that the rich feel that they are more or less rusticating here.

There is nothing complicated about renting a house for the season in Saratoga, except digging up the required dough.

You just get hold of a real estate agent, tell him exactly what you want, and how much you are disposed to pay, and the chances are he will have your house in 24 hours.

FEW BAD BARGAINS

You do not have to bother even to come to Saratoga in advance, though unless you are experienced in house renting here, and are familiar with locations, it is not a bad idea to look around.

In general, however, a Saratoga real estate agent is unlikely to stick you with a bad bargain.

He wants your business and your recommendation another season. He will dig up a cook and any other help you require, and the cook is apt to be one of these upstate, middle-aged lady cooks who can do more tricks about a cook stove than Cardini with a pack of pasteboards.

This renting out of houses in Saratoga for the renting season has become so systematized that about all a visitor has to do is notify the agent of the day of his arrival, and lo, and behold, his house will be all ready, and a piping hot dinner spread as he steps across the threshold.

We have often wondered where these Saratogians go after they rent out their houses. We had a vague theory that they probably move in with in-laws somewhere around town, or perhaps in the surrounding hills, but we were not quite sure about that and it worried us.

We hated to think of some of these nice people wandering about without habitation in August while some stranger enjoyed the comforts of their homes, so we asked a householder about this the other day.

"Well," he said, "I'll tell you. I take a nice little vacation. I go to a hotel."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

REFUTES CLAIM ARMS MAKERS CAUSE WAR

Orono, Me., July 21 (AP)—Munitions manufacturers and international bankers, Dr. R. L. Morrow, of the University of Maine history department, told the Institute of World Affairs here today, are the results, not the causes, of war systems.

"It is more popular," the university history and government professor said, "to blame the munitions manufacturers or the international bankers, or anyone, or any group, outside of ourselves."

The foreign policy of America, he said, in the long run is the policy of the people themselves.

"If the policy leads America into war, it is because the vast majority of American citizens preferred war to peace under the circumstances that presented themselves at the time."

Dr. Morrow, to prove Americans generally faavored participation in the World War, cited the fact that the people "approved and supported" the war resolution that passed the House of Representatives in 1917.

He said the reason for collapse of modern peace movements was the desire of the people for peace and their paradoxical insistence on policies to make peace impossible.

Dr. Morrow pointed out that "the sum total of the American economic interests involved in 1917 went far beyond the interest of the Morgans and the duPonts.

"It was not Morgan alone who had a financial stake in an allied victory, but the great mass of American wheat and cotton farmers, and American manufacturers of materials that could be sold to the allies at a larger profit."

Milk Bootleggers Jailed by Nazis

Berlin, July 21 (AP)—The German secret police acted today against food producers who fail to co-operate in the four-year plan for economic self-sufficiency and jailed three East Prussian farmers.

The offenders were said to have disregarded their obligation to deliver milk quotas to specified dairies, but instead fed the milk to their hogs and marketed butter through bootleggers to obtain higher prices.

JEAN ACKER'S WEALTH GONE

Hollywood, July 21 (INS)—Jean Acker, once the wife of Rudolph Valentino, is working here today as a film extra.

The woman who was the envy of other women throughout the world when she became Valentino's leading lady in real life as well as on the screen was "discovered" working in the part of a dress extra at Selznick-International studio.

She has lost fortune and fame, but bravely is starting over again to climb back the hard road.

"My story is short and simple and not so bad as you may believe," she said. "In 1926 I left motion pictures and tourned New York and the nation on the stage.

"In 1929 I had amassed a fortune of $300,000. The market crashed and my savings were swept away."

Marshall Field's Widow Stricken

Beverly, July 21—Mrs. Marshall Field, 84, widow of the Chicago merchandizing genius and said to be one of the wealthiest women in the nation, is ill today at her summer home. Her illness was reported by a niece, Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge.

Mrs. Field has been in poor health for several months, according to her physician, Dr. Albert E. Parkhurst. She came here a month ago from Washington.

14th Child Arrives For 'Legion Daddy'

Easthampton, July 21 (AP)—Edward La Plante, custodian of the town hall who was given the title "Daddy of the American Legion" two years ago on the birth of his 12th child, has added to his qualifications for the distinction.

A nine-pound girl, their 14th child, in 16 years, was born to Mr. and Mrs. La Plante today. The oldest child is 15 and all are living.

$3,000,000 Gold Treasure Found In Panama

Panama, July 21 (AP) — An investigating committee headed by the governor of Chiriquit province today confirmed the discovery of a $3,000,000 treasure in gold which had been hidden for centuries in tunnels along the Piedra Candela river.

Gaston Johannes van Steck, a French prospector, reported the discovery July 7 of two tunnels deep in the right bank of the river. In the tunnels were stored approximately 80 ingots of gold each weighing 30 pounds.

Van Steck ceded half the value of his find to the central government, as Panama laws require, and a commission headed by Governor Teran of Chiriqui set out from David.

The commission was reported reliably to have found a third tunnel with additional ingots that would bring the total to 120 of 30 pounds each. It was estimated at the current price of gold they would bring $3,000,000.

It was believed the find was part of the gold from "La Estrella" mine which was worked by the early Spanish conquistadores until they were wiped out by attacking Indians.

Truck Driver Hero In Tenement Fire

New York, July 21 (AP)—A truck driver's dash through a West Side tenement house to warn residents of fire, was credited today with having saved many lives.

One person was killed and several were injured in the blaze that damaged three tenement houses at West 35th street and Tenth avenue.

The truck driver, Frank Bochicchio, 25, himself narrowly escaped after he had discovered the blaze and dashed through the building.

WALTHAM FIRE SUSPECT HELD

State police announced today the arrest, in Saginaw, Mich., of Michael Francis Sweeney, 35, sought four years in connection with the burning of a Waltham ice house.

Sweeney was arrested on a charge not yet known to local officials and his fingerprints, sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, revealed he was wanted in Waltham.

State Detective Edward P. O'Neill of the fire marshal's office and District Attorney Warren L. Bishop began preparation for extradition.

Sweeney was charged specifically with burning a building to defraud and conspiracy to extort. In the summer of 1933 the Peterson ice house in Waltham was destroyed.

Several men were arrested. Two drew jail terms as accessories to arson.

Brighton Ladder Crashes, 1 Hurt

Tillerman Henry McCormack, 35, Eastburn street, Brighton, suffered serious injuries today and four other firemen leaped to safety when Ladder 14, Brighton, struck the curb at Soldiers Field road and North Harvard street, and then struck and bent a traffic light pole.

McCormack, steersman on the rear wheels of the truck, was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where he was found to have back injuries and a possible fracture of the skull.

Those who leaped were Captain Fred Brophy and Laddermen John Farrell, Robert Davis and Harry Schinder. Driving the truck was Timothy J. Donovan.

Regains Lost Pin After 36 Years

Easthampton, July 21 (AP)—In 1901, Franklin Trueman, now manager of a local chain store, lost his high school class pin in Portsmouth, N. H.

He got it back today by mail, pinned to an unsigned note which read:

"I'm sorry I did it."

Hitler Welcomes New Soviet Envoy

Berlin, July 21 (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler interrupted a holiday at his Berchtesgaden estate in the Bavarian mountains today to receive Russia's new ambassador, Constantine Jurenew, and the meeting gave rise to new speculations as to the possibilities of Russo-German rapprochment soon.

THIS IS LIFE

By

Robert E. Rogers

Over here in America one of the wealthy and public-spirited Guggenheims endows a foundation to promote "modern art." Across the water the head of the Nazi government, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, dedicating the "New House of German Art," announces that the Nazi regime will eradicate ruthlessly the last vestiges of the former "degenerated" s[illegible] ers in German artistic life.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

His words are directed against cubism, futurism, dadaism, surrealism, and similar trends which der fuehrer stigmatizes as Jewish - Marxist—which is probably nonsense.

Some of our most interesting "modernists" over here are of old Yankee stock. The fashionable trend toward American "primitives" is not unlike the other fashionable trends in contemporary painting.

The Guggenheims, the seven sons of the late Meyer Guggenheim who founded the famous mining dynasty in America, are interesting examples of men who spend money in large amounts for public purposes.

Their Great American Gifts Aid to Art

One of them, Daniel, gave Technology's aeronautical laboratory for the training of aeronautical engineers. Another of them, John Simon, gives annually the Guggenheim scholarships, a large number of which pay generous stipends of several thousand dollars each for creative work in music and the arts, literature—including poetry, fiction and research work—and other projects for which already well-known men and women need leisure, a year of aided work at home or abroad, and such recognition as these prize awards can give.

And now Solomon R. Guggenheim, fourth son, endows a foundation "for promotion and encouragement of art and education in art and the enlightenment of the public, especially in the field of art."

There is also a Murry and Leonia Foundation for the establishment of dental clinics in New York city.

Mr. Guggenheim is interested particularly in spreading the gospel of "non-objective art." It is described as "color, form and space combinations without intellectual meanings, created for the realization of spiritual joy and the sole purpose of elating the sense of beauty."

Hitler Leaves Out Art To Create Art More

Across the water der fuehrer seems to be proceeding on the principle of Mark Twain, who once said that "one can begin a very good library by leaving out Jane Austen." Herr Hitler seems to believe that you can begin a very good art movement by leaving out all modern art, reverting to what he characterizes as the "clarity" of the old style.

To show what art ought not to be the Nazis also plan to open an exhibition of what they consider Germany's worst art, as a reminder of the Marxist influence of pre-Hitler days.

This idea preceded only by a few days the recent announcement that the new "Germanic faith" of paganism will absorb Christianity. Seems like altogether Hitler may be biting off more than he can chew.

These are two as interesting examples as you can find of the difference between the American democratic method and the Nazi method of repression, control and government ukase. Can there be anyone in this country who hesitates a moment as to what is the more useful or healthful policy?

Hitler Right Once And Then About Simplicity

We go on the assumption that free exhibition and discussion of even the most horrible art-work does not really harm the American people. Even the fantastic idiocies and imbecilities of surrealism, as lately seen in Boston, do not produce anything more than a good laugh. On the other hand, there is much in modern art that we can see and discuss with considerable profit, without attributing it to either alien cultural influences or the dialectical materialism of the Marxists.

One thing that Hitler said, though, I find worth quoting and agreeing with:

> "Any German artist who thinks he has something to say ought to express it clearly in his work, and not in silly explanatory phrases. Art which cannot be understood without a new vocabulary of phrases and slogans is worthless."

Provided that aesthetic policy can be encouraged without concentration camps, labor battalions and rigorous censorship, it is an idea that strikes me as worth encouraging. As an aesthetic policy, mind you! Not as a ukase.

GIRL, 14, Held as 'Ring' CHIEF

6 ACCUSED OF BIKE THEFTS

A 14-year-old girl reputed "master mind" of a bicycle ring responsible for the theft of 100 bicycles, and five boys, all juveniles, were arrested by Malden police today.

Police recovered 35 stolen bicycles three of which have been identified by their owners.

For more than two months Malden police have been harassed by reports from youths that their bicycles were stolen. Four were taken from the basement of Malden High School. Others were stolen from hallways, backyards and other places.

Special Officer Owen D. Doonan was assigned to track down the thieves. So cunning were the thefts that Doonan's efforts to get trace of the bandits were baffled.

NABBED IN "JUNGLE"

Today, after the theft of a bicycle from in front of a Malden square market, Doonan heard about a gang consisting of a girl and five boys who congregated in a "jungle" near east side dump.

Doonan descended on the "jungle" and nabbed the girl and her companions. In the bushes he uncovered 35 bicycles stolen within the last month.

Although all six at first denied the thefts police say they later admitted them.

Police charge that under the direction of their girl leader the boys stole the bicycles and rode them to the "jungle." Once there the members were filed off, accessories stripped away and in some instances different paint applied to make identification difficult.

TWO IDENTIFIED

George Maise, of Melrose, whose bicycle was stolen while he was swimming near his home, identified one of the recovered wheels and Darle Lee of Malden, identified another.

Police said the girl and her companions would be arraigned in juvenile court next Wednesday.

DEFENDANTS FIGHT VERDICT

LEAGUE Defies Court BAN

FINED WOMEN FILE APPEALS

Defying the ban placed on distribution of birth control articles in a decision handed down by Judge George B. Sears in Salem court, the Birth Control League of Massachusetts today continued the operation of its clinics.

Birth control clinics in Massachusetts are located on Massachusetts avenue Boston, Vernon street, Brookline, Worcester, Springfield, Pittsfield and New Bedford.

Referring to the decision which Judge Sears handed down when he fined three society women defendants in the test case, Leslie D. Hawkridge, president of the Birth Control League, said today:

"We will continue to operate the clinics throughout the state, pending our appeal to the Superior Court, which we have every reason to believe will be favorable.

"I doubt very much if the Superior Court will interfere with good medical practice.

READY FOR APPEALS

"If the decision of the Superior Court is not in our favor, we will appeal to the Supreme Court.

"Judge Sears' decision only covers the Salem district."

While appeals today were being entered from the convictions and minimum fines of $100 each for the three defendants in court yesterday, Mrs. Carolyn T. Gardner of Salem, Dr. Lucile Lord-Heinstein of Dorchester and Mrs. Flora Rand of Brookline, a nurse, doctors and nurses throughout the state were wondering to what extent enforcement of this state law will finally be carried.

In handing down his decision Judge Sears overruled the plea of the defendants that the law did not apply to doctors or medical clinics and declared that since the Supreme Court had ruled on a similar case he had no alternative but to rule the law had been violated.

TO CLOSE CLINIC

He ordered forfeiture of articles seized by police in a raid on the Salem clinic June 3, made on complaints from church leaders and citizens near the health center.

Officials today agreed to close the clinic, pending appeal of the cases of the three women leaders but declared the closing of the Salem clinic will not affect activities of the other six centers throughout the state.

Truck of Cotton Afire on Bridge

A seven-ton truck belonging to the Keogh Storage Company, Fall River, loaded with 26 bales of cotton, caught fire today on the Warren avenue bridge when the cotton, piled high, came in contact with the trolley wire under the El structure.

Damage was estimated at $2500. Bielecki had driven his truck several hundred feet, not knowing his load was afire until passers-by shouted to him. A draw-tender notified the fire department.

Clara King Ill, Court Delays

Salem, July 21—With all others present and ready in the case, Mrs. Clara M. King sent word to superior court today that she was under a doctor's care and could not appear in the equity suit brought against her by executors of the estate of former Mayor Hiram H. Landford of Newburyport.

Mrs. King, 53-year-old former secretary to the 90-year-old former mayor, was to have taken the stand again today to give further details of an admitted romance with Landford, despite the fact that two lawyers had dropped her case.

As a result of her failure to appear, the trial was postponed until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Find Blood Stains On Stolen Machine

Blood stains found on the window and steering wheel of a stolen car recovered on Fairfield street, Back Bay, today led police to believe that the automobile thief had cut himself during his theft.

It is thought the thief broke the car window to gain entrance, receiving a gash from the broken glass edge, and dripped blood as he drove away. At first it was believed the car might have been connected with some shooting affray.

Rockport Gallery Owner Guilty in Sunday Opening

Gloucester, July 21—First of the seven members of the Rockport art colony charged with refusing to close shop on Sunday, Arthur E. Smith, proprietor of the Bearskin Gallery, was found guilty today in district court by Judge Lincoln S. Simonds.

Following lengthy testimony by former District Attorney William C. Clark of Essex County, who again asserted that the statute originally adopted in 1692 might have been qualified by recent decisions, Judge Simonds ruled that Smith, whose case is similar to that of the other six artists, was guilty because he opened his gallery on Sunday for "profit sales on paintings."

The case was placed on file.

Road Stand Looted

Lawrence, July 21—Candy and ice cream valued at more than $10 was stolen in an early morning break at "The Cottage," a roadside stand on Lawrence street near the Methuen line.

GLASS 'LOOPER' STORMS HOTEL

Three well-aimed bricks, politely wrapped in paper bags, were hurled through three separate plate glass windows in the Hotel Essex today by a new kind of "looper."

Police nabbed a man who said he was Ph[illegible] O'Connor, [illegible], of Rutland square, South End.

According to police, O'Connor started on the Atlantic avenue side smashing a window there, then dashed around into Essex street smashing two more, and after that darted right through the hotel onto Atlantic avenue again.

There he ended his "loop" in the arms of Patrolman Patrick J. Crowley.

Although there is a strike in progress at the hotel, O'Connor is not one of the strikers and the half dozen pickets, peacefully patroling at the scene, were as much startled as anybody when the bricks started flying.

The prisoner said, however, according to police:

"I'm in sympathy with those strikers. Nobody told me to throw the bricks. It was just my idea. I'm sick and would like to go to a hospital."

Six Special Agents Here to Probe Pols' Incomes

The politically startling disclosure was made here today that six special agents from Washington are investigating incomes of prominent Massachusetts politicians and dealings of several contractors.

The investigation is said to have resulted from statements made to Treasury Department officials in Washington by persons who claimed to have knowledge of facts which may not have been reported on income tax blanks.

These statements are reported to have included stories of strong boxes maintained in distant cities and even in Canada and Cuba by individuals under investigation.

The special agents are known to be working independently of the regular intelligence bureau of the internal revenue division. They are understood to be empowered to serve subpoenas, if their investigation warrants assessment of additional taxes and penalties.

Masked with secrecy until today, the investigation when disclosed caused a stir in political circles where speculation began as to the identity of the individuals at whom the probe is aimed.

"It looks as if they had something," said one politician who refused to permit use of his name. "I imagine something's going to break that will rock this state and city."

SPEED PLANT GROWTH BY FILTERED LIGHT

How green, yellow, red and blue light, each separated out of the spectrum, will cause plants, particularly lettuce, to grow in varying degrees, was one of the revelations made today at the International Conference on Spectroscopy at M. I. T.

Dr. Lewis Flint, of Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research predicted that the growth of plants may now be accelerated by placing the seedlings within the range of a sodium vapor light.

It is necessary to have a certain type filter, too, Dr. Flint said. The filter lets some light through, and keeps other rays out. Only the rays which stimulate growth reach the plant.

Gardens wrapped in cellophane "bags" or "envelopes" are also a possibility of the future, Dr. Thompson revealed.

He disclosed he has made recent studies which show that seeds which "grow up" in cellophane bags of "red" are not sensitive to light and germinate much more perfectly. If a blue cellophane wrapper is placed around the plant stalk growth is hindered, and the seeds produced are light sensitive.

Other speakers were Dr. L. Edward Gaul of New York, Professor Wallace Brode of Ohio State University; Dr. Eugene Melvin of the United States Bureau of Chemistry.

Brother Cut Off In Goodnough Will

Cutting off his brother, Randall Goodnough, Shaw road, Brookline, the will of Benjamin F. Goodnough of the same town, was filed today in Dedham probate court.

He willed $5000 real estate and personal property to his cousin Ellen M. Kennedy, of Brookline and left the residue of a $23,000 estate to Harvard University and Massachusetts General Hospital. Goodnough died June 29.

$159,155 Grant to State

Washington, July 21 (INS) The Social Security board today made a grant of $159,155 to Massachusetts for administration of state unemployment compensation laws for July, August and September.

Quit Trip to Vote Against Teacher

Efforts to have Miss Isabelle Hallin, pretty Saugus dramatics teacher, reinstated to her position in the high school faculty dimmed today as it was learned two of the majority school committee members, who voted against Miss Hallin two weeks ago, will return from vacations for tonight's special meeting.

Chairman George A. McCarrier said today he has received notice that both Maria Smith, 74-year-old former school teacher, and Waldo B. Russell, vacationing in New Hampshire, will make a special trip to be present at the school committee meeting tonight.

It had previously appeared that Miss Hallin's reinstatement might pass by a 2 to 1 vote, with Committeemen Smith and Russell absent.

Woman Rescued From Elevator

Stranded for an hour in a disabled elevator between the second and third floors of her apartment house in Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, Mrs. Sylvia Levy, 25, was rescued by police early today after her screams had aroused tenants of the building.

Brighton police who responded to the emergency call pried open the third floor elevator door and pulled Mrs. Levy to safety through the narrow opening between the floor and the elevator roof. She was uninjured.

Mrs. Theophilus King, widow of the Quincy banker and philanthropist, began her 88th year today with memories of a birthday party tendered her by members of her immediate family.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

Ann Marsters

We wonder how many of you have been to Plymouth, Vermont, and have visited the birthplace of Calvin Coolidge.

A friend, just back from Vermont, tells us that a lively little business has grown up at the scene of the Coolidge homestead. Maple sugar and postcards are being sold from the very table at which Coolidge was sworn in as President of the United States by his father one lamplit midnight. Tatting, made by the old Coolidge housekeeper, is also sold.

ANN MARSTERS

Across the street is the small general store which Calvin's father once owned, and in which Calvin was born. A black cat drowses by an old iron stove in the center of the store.

When you approach the house you may meet a boyhood friend of Calvin Coolidge, standing by the road, who will take you in tow and volunteer to tell you what is what in the vicinity "without a cent of charge."

Row of 22 Stones Mark Where Coolidges Rest

And he draws attention to a little booklet, written by himself, called "Calvin Coolidge, from the Farm to the White House." It sells for a quarter, and it would be nice of you to buy one.

A homely American spirit pervades the place, and Coolidge himself would surely approve of it. You may see his grave, not far away, marked by one of twenty-two stones set in a straight line, and identifying six generations of Coolidges.

Toe-Nail Appliance Helps Milady Tint

Maybe life isn't so complicated and serious, after all. The latest beauty gadget to appear on the market is a little rubber affair designed to make toe-tinting less perilous.

It's of soft red rubber—with four spaced teeth rising up from a flat strip. When you approach your toes with a bottle of nail polish, you slip the gadget between your toes. Thus, your toes will not wriggle, and you can even walk across the room, if necessary, without marring the polish before it's dry.

Longwood Bowl Tournament Attracts Fashionables

By BETTY ALDEN

TENNIS is in the air this week . . . what with perfect weather and renewed hopes of the American Davis Cup team bringing the famous trophy home again. So there was more than usual interest in the third and fourth round play in the Longwood Bowl Tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club yesterday afternoon . . .

A great many society girls went out to Chestnut Hill to sit on the club's veranda or in the little bleachers to watch their sister post debs, and their brothers, husbands and boy friends, playing their hardest to win their matches and move one step closer to the final round of the tournament . . .

KAY WINTHROP

Three of Boston's socially prominent racquet wielders rank among the eleven best women players in the country . . . and two of this famous triumvirate, Sarah Palfrey Fabyan and Virginia Rice Johnson, took the courts yesterday to defend their prestige . . . The third member of the trio, Kay Winthrop, has just come back from playing at Wimbledon in England, and has not entered the present competition . . . Undoubtedly she is resting up a bit so she will be fresh and ready to shine in the National Doubles next month at Longwood . . . Incidently we understand that the finals of the National Doubles will be played on Sunday this year . . . and, for the first time to our knowledge, due to some town zoning laws, the house committee will be able to charge admission on Sunday . . .

Virginia Ellis is also playing in the Longwood Bowl Tournament and advanced to the third round in which she meets Mrs. John Van Ryn today . . . Polly Morrill is out of the running after being defeated by an older and more experienced player . . . Mrs. Nathaniel Winthrop played a successful match yesterday while her husband cheered from the gallery, and Dorothy Wightman, Mrs. J. Lewis Bremer and Polly Winslow, were all entered in the contest . . . Hope Knowles, the pretty blonde player from Philadelphia who is the house guest of Polly Morrill, is doing very well in the tournament . . .

Young Set Well Represented

AMONG THE MANY SPECTATORS was Virginia Wright, a deb of last winter, who was with Jane Swift of Chestnut Hill . . . Bennette Plimpton came up from Watch Hill, R. I., where she is spending the summer, to watch the matches with her father, who is a member of the Cricket Club's house committee . . . Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw sat with Phyllis Forbes, who wore a sunny yellow and white polka dot dress with a braided coronet of red, green and yellow beads in her curls . . .

Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno, Jr., sat on the verandah while J. Brooks played a strenuous match and others watching from the various good vantage points were Mrs. John Gorham Palfrey, Josephine Emery, Mrs. Robert Farrington with her debutante daughter, Joan Thomson, Anne Means, who came up from the North Shore for the afternoon, Clement Burnhome, who has assumed the responsibility for publicizing the National Doubles, Jane Stanton, an attractive young out-of-town contestant, who donned a larkspur blue linen frock with white sandals after coming in off the courts in her shorts and sneakers; and Wilmer Allison, leading star in the men's division, who joined the fans in the bleachers after his successful matches . . .

The Boy Scouts have been in the news quite a bit lately, with their big national jamboree in Washington . . . and they are going to occupy the attention of most everyone on the North Shore early next month when a lavish charity ball is to be given for their benefit . . . The affair will take place on Friday, August 13, at the Essex County Club . . . The committee in charge has just sent the invitations to the printers, so you will have to wait a few days for the ink to dry and stamps to be licked, before the postman will put yours in the mail box . . .

Vacationing on Cape Cod

NO MATTER where you spend the summer in your youth . . . whether at the seashore, the mountains, on a ranch or on a houseboat . . . no other place ever seems quite as perfect for a vacation . . . so Lilla Draper Calfee and Nancy Hallowell Heckscher, who were practically brought up on Cape Cod in their childhood summers, and who both moved away from Boston after marriage, have come back for their vacations this year . . . Mrs. Heckscher and her little daughter have come on from Philadelphia to visit her mother, Mrs. J. Mott Hallowell at Wianno . . . and Mrs. Calfee and her husband, Arthur D. Calfee of New York, are spending a few weeks with her parents, the Clare Drapers, who have their summer residence at Hyannisport . . .

• • •

This week is just the beginning of a series of tennis tournaments at nearby clubs . . . the Eastern Yacht Club's annual tennis tourney will be staged during summer race week in Marblehead, which begins August 7 . . . and the following week the annual tournament at Essex County Club will get under way with the first matches scheduled for Monday, the 16th . . .

Plan Bridal In Milton

Mrs. Edward G. Rogerson (Anna Tillinghast) has selected Friday, August 20, as the date for her marriage to Tappen E. Francis, son of Dr. and Mrs. Carleton S. Francis of Brookline. The wedding, which will be attended only by the immediate families of the couple, will take place at the Milton residence of Mrs. Rogerson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Tillinghast.

Rev. Vivian Pomeroy will perform the ceremony and Carleton S. Francis, Jr., as best man, will be the only attendant. The bride-to-be is the widow of Edward G. Rogerson, brother of Charles M. Rogerson of Milton, who was recently married to Miss Frances Glover of Wayland. She attended Milton Academy, and has one daughter, Miss Barbara Rogerson.

Mr. Francis was a member of the class of 1920 at Harvard and served as a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy during the World War.

Boston Evening American Photo

JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE. Mrs. Edward Dane (Jane Ewell) and her Great Dane posed for the photographer as they were about to enter the ring at a recent outdoor dog show on the North Shore. A few minutes after this picture was taken the dog, who has a long and aristocratic name, had met and conquered all competition in his class and was sporting a brand new blue ribbon. Mrs. Dane and her husband live in Chestnut Hill, with a summer residence in Rowley. She is a member of the Junior League. At right you can get a glimpse of Patricia Preston watching the events in the ring.

Cohasset Bridge Aids Guild of St. Elizabeth

The gods were kind to Mrs. William H. Taylor and Mrs. David Foley who boosted the Guild of St. Elizabeth exchequer via an outdoor bridge and tea yesterday at Rathmore, their North Cohasset home.

In fact the spot quaintly named for the hostesses' ancestral home five miles outside Dublin seemed to be the crossroads of the South Shore with everyone on hand with unloosened pursestrings.

Luck was with Mrs. Howard Gray of Brookline who carried off the best trophy of the day, a sapphire and chromium desk clock. Nor did lady fortune frown on Mrs. John Quinlan, who won a good-looking and useful serving tray.

GREEN AND BROWN PRINT

Mrs. Taylor, her individual print savoring of things Japanese, and Mrs. Foley, whose green and brown print was worn with brown accessories, were assisted by a score of young-setters. Leading the group was Mary Joan Manley, youthful niece of the household, who's come on from Baltimore for the remainder of the season at Cohasset.

From nearby Scituate came a horde of charity-conscious young ladies. Betty and Chickie McHugh, outstanding members of the contingent, were effectively ensembled in sport togs and Kay Whoriskey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John J. Whoriskey, chose a typical garden party frock of white net combined with yellow.

Another helpful trio included Frances Ellen Pitts in a billowy peach organdy, and Frances and Jean Mulcahey, members of the Scituate younger set.

WEARS NAVY PRINT

Also present were Mrs. William Fitzpatrick, white accessories with her navy print, Mrs. Francis Jantzen, in beige and brown accompanied by her younger daughter Alice, just returned from Lake Ontario racing junket with a group of Wellesley College girls.

Mrs. Frank Gr[illegible] in white sheer printed in red entertained her house guest, Mrs. Charles Sheahen of New York, who chose the perennial black and white. Glimpsed: Mrs. Robert Doherty's aqua frock beneath a [illegible]-colored coat, Mrs. Charles Obetha set her frock amusingly printed with bumble bees and Mrs. John Lucy of Belmont in a colorful ensemble of blue and white.

"My Son and I Against the World"—But We Are Really Happy

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The writer of this letter has solved the most difficult problem a girl can face.

Her letter tells how she met it with unbounded courage, and has found happiness as the result.

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Some weeks ago I read a letter in your column, which has haunted me ever since. If I had known where to find the writer I'd have gone to her to talk things out.

"I wanted to tell her life was not the black pit she took it to be, or at least that one can climb out of the pit if she has enough will power and refuses to be beaten. The girl was unmarried and going to have a baby.

"A little more than seven years ago I was facing the same problem as this girl. Memories of a frightful night came back to me when I walked back and forth across a bridge trying to get up the courage to let the river settle my problem. Happy, laughing people in cars stuck out their heads to look at me, but no one offered to give me a lift, or to ask if they could help.

MADE GREAT DECISION

"A policeman, who had seen me cross the bridge twice, said he'd arrest me if he saw me again. I went home, and there I came to the great decision of my life—to go through with this thing for which I was responsible.

"I had no one to turn to for help, money or sympathy. I went to a local charity hospital and there my son was born. At first I looked at him with hatred. He was the millstone I was to carry around my neck. He was a strong child and had a fighting way with him that amused even the nurse to whom he was just one more case.

"If he had been a whining baby perhaps I wouldn't have fallen for him the way I did, but the way he cried—louder than any other child in the ward—fought for his food, kicked and asserted himself got me. And in the end he won me over.

BECAME HAPPY

"I had been a better than average stenographer and typist but I had not worked for nearly two years before the baby was born. I wanted to get back and knock a living out of life for my baby and myself.

"A woman doctor told me to get back my strength as soon as I could, and she'd help me find a job. It wasn't much of a job but it paid $18.50 a week. She suggested a creche kept by some French sisters of charity where I could board the baby during the day while I worked.

"I paid $3 per week for his board. I used to leave him in the morning before I went to work and call for him at night. And would you believe it, I began to be very happy.

FIGHT THE WORLD

"I had a feeling of my-son-and-I against-the-world, and I assumed with my associates who were beginning to be friendly a 'take it or leave it' attitude. I told no tall tales about husband desertion. I made no explanations at all. Anyone who accepted me as a friend had to take me and the baby too as is.

"Sonny is a big boy now, nearly seven. This September I am going to put him in a boarding school near enough for him to spend his week ends with me.

"I have a fine job, good friends, my boy loves me, and I'm happy. I hope the girl who talked of ending it all may see this.

"A MOTHER."

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

He is 20 and I am 16. We've seen a good deal of each other. His sister and I are friends and go around together. She gets me in a lot of trouble with him by repeating things and not always getting them straight. And so I have been advised not to go with her any more.

Now the whole family is going to move far away very soon and I am wondering how I am going to see him. I love him with all my heart. LONELY.

DEAR LONELY:

If he is really interested in you, he will not hesitate to let you know he will be glad to hear from you. And he will [illegible]ly make an effort to come to see you some time and will answer your letters.

Dotted Swiss MAKES NEWEST Housecoats

By ANNICE BRINK
Fashion Editor

SURELY there's no girl who is going to let the summer slip by without lounging away a few of its hours in that most flattering and dramatic trick—the housecoat.

It seems that the town has never been so housecoat-minded before, and little wonder! And it's turned out to be quite as much fun to shop the negligee department as any other, since its wares have become so "glamourful."

Every type from the clinging vine to the champion sportswoman can find the house coat which really does something for her.

The first gal will probably choose one of the new dotted swisses. The second should go in for gorgeously printed waffle pique in those long, straight-swishing lines with tailored shoulders and revers.

Navy or red dots on white swisses are crisp as early morning.

There's a surplice style that has rows of baby val along the revers and tiny tucks on the right hip.

Then there is the round-neck collarless type that follows up a grand midwinter success . . . the fitted princess coat with buttons in triplet groupings all the way down from chin to hem.

Stripes have the greatest histrionic ability . . . you can come in looking gayer than a circus, svelte as a nymph, or fresh and vital as a sail in the wind . . . all depending on just how the stripes and colors are handled.

It's the Stocky Man's Weight That Provides Problems

By IDA JEAN KAIN

"That's not fat, that's muscle," says the average fat man in defense of his weight. "At my age I'm entitled to weigh close to 195 pounds. Besides, my father was a big man. I'm stockily built."

Those are the favorite alibis of the stocky man who is headed toward avoirdupois, and there is something in his argument.

It is difficult for the heavy-set man to keep his weight at normal. Structure makes the difference in food requirements between two men of the [illegible] weight. The short stocky man gains steadily on no more food than keeps the tall thin man at normal weight.

As explained by Dr. H. C. Sherman, eminent authority in nutritional research, the thin man, in addition to having greater surface area in proportion to weight, also carries a higher percentage of his weight in active tissue. The utilization of calories, called body metabolism, depends more upon the percentage of active tissue than upon total weight. This active tissue burns many more calories than fat.

Then how about the short man who is also thin? Because of his thinness he has greater surface area and more active tissue in proportion to his weight than the fat man of the same height but different build. Therefore, he can eat considerably more food without crowding his waistline.

The short, stocky man has more difficulty than any other type in keeping his weight at normal.

AUSTEN LAKE

AUSTEN LAKE

A NEW AND STARTLING POLICY has been announced by the Longwood Cricket Club toward those high-ranking tennis gigolos who seem to subsist on wind, air and imagination while touring the supercilious social centers of the U. S. L. T. A. Longwood says in a press release today that it has discontinued fostering players of either sex "who desire their transportation paid to and from tournaments, or wish free board and lodging during competition."

Longwood wishes to lead a more pious life in keeping with the strict amateurism and to forsake the old hypocrisies of the tennis business as it is conducted both here and abroad. By taking this pledge it implies that it has not always run its tournaments according to amateur blessedness.

This attitude will dumbfound the professional tennis amateurs who have accepted a doubtful social and industrial status during tournaments and were placed on a footing of moochers singing for their suppers. The drawing cards of both genders, who have a recognized cash value at the box offices, are sure to be horrified at the thought of paying their own haulage and hotelage in order to entertain members of the American peerage at Chestnut Hill. And if more of the tennis clubs decide to give no more pickings, the tennis gigolos will be forced into honest toil or open professionalism and be remembered only as photographic fossils on the clubhouse walls.

What Longwood hopes is to develop a class of [illegible] kids regardless of social connections or neighborhood who will play for fun instead of pay, instead of the barnstorming experts who devote years [illegible] means.

* * *

Custom of Employing Ringers an Old One

THIS IS NOT TO DISPARAGE PROFESSIONALISM where the services and pay are honestly stipulated. The pro fighters, pro ball players and pro hockey players have an undeniable respectability. They associate on equal footing with such intellectuals as Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale. But the practice of employing ringers on athletic teams and tournaments is still regarded as a very low practice in which the ringer receives neither the honest wage of professionalism nor the gentle consideration due an amateur.

Colleges used to do something like this in the game of football and some still do it under pretense of appearing not to [illegible]. And, if you are listening this autumn you are sure to hear of at least a dozen yowls that certain varsities are bringing in young men with fine school football records and expecting them for three years of box office appeal before turning them [illegible] society again to look for work they are not equipped to perform.

And, in village baseball, it is still considered smart [illegible] reprehensible by the other side to hire big league [illegible] professionals for the big [illegible] game versus the North [illegible] board Bulldogs [illegible] name of John Brown [illegible] him up there [illegible] opposing yokels [illegible] faster.

* * *

I HAVE READ SOMEWHERE THAT THE GAME of tennis traced back to royal beginnings. In this country it began as a dude pastime for the elite of Newport, R. I. They played it at first for pleasure. But, when members of the hoi-polloi gradually took it up and became more expert than the best families, they were imported to entertain Newport royalty, whom directly they were licking the spots off. So, gradually the habit started of paying the players a little something to live on and some side money too, and after a while the best of the performers discovered that they could enjoy an existence of princely luxury by following the tennis calendar from one community to another.

The late Mr. Alfred Spalding, in writing his history of baseball, told similarly how, in the origin of the game, the baseball organizations were social clubs of leisured rich who wished to beguile their boredom. The first club was either the Knickerbocker of New York or the Nonpareils of Cooperstown, N. Y., whom Mr. Spalding frankly considered prigs who never played more than a trivial brand of ball and kept snobbishly to themselves until, presently, other clubs rose up in the middle 1880's and the Knickerbockers began to be challenged by grimy workmen, cobblers and livery stable swipes.

So, like the Newport tennis people later on, the Knickerbockers, Nonpareils and [illegible] were unable to control the rules of the game [illegible] Mr. Spalding, "They began enticing the leading players [illegible] to join their organizations and [illegible] custom to that of inducing exceptional [illegible] and industrial enterprises with offers of [illegible]. It was understood that, while the player was ostensibly engaged [illegible] he was to participate in all matches played by the [illegible]."

* * *

The British Did It, Too

NOR IS THE PRACTICE OF SUBSIDIZING athletes a peculiar American trait, despite the tendency of our English cousins to be scandalized by our little muckerisms. It seems that the British were not free from the same enticements when rugby football began to develop in the early 90's from an unorganized scramble into a regulated contest of box office proportions.

One finds in a [illegible] Encyclopedia [illegible] under "Football," the [illegible]: "In its original beginning football was played for pleasure by men of comparatively wealthy [illegible] with growing [illegible] the football clubs began to grow prosperous by [illegible] for admission fees. Thus temptations arose to reward the players for out of pocket expense. At the same time the richer clubs began to offer inducements to the better players to associate with them [illegible] and these inducements were usually acceptable in the form of money."

So one supposes the major league people need not hang their heads in the misapprehension of having discovered the original sin of [illegible] amateurs. Nor is the Longwood Cricket Club unique in being stricken by conscience and resolving to live a finer amateur life. Many of the football colleges have suffered similar qualms, recovered and resumed [illegible] all over again. It's a kind of growing-pains cycle.

The stolid Casey scored the only fall of the match in 50m. 56s, with a top body grapevine. Neither wrestler was able to score a toss in the remaining part of the 90m. limit set for the contest.

It was a case of Casey's strength and ruggedness being a bit too much for Danno's speed and more varied assortment of holds.

[illegible]

"IRISH WHIP" FAILS

[illegible]

Casey scored the only fall of the match after O'Mahony had tried to win with his "Irish Whip." Danno tossed Casey against the ropes with this pet hold and then applied it for the second time.

McCARTHY UP IN ARMS

By Associated Press

When John A. Heydler, former president of the National League, goes to a ball game these days he sits in the bleachers to get the sun . . .

He doesn't know it yet, but Al Schacht, the baseball clown, is going to get a fat offer . . .

Joe McCarthy says Johnny will never throw another ball for the Yankees . . . So it may be Newark or points west for the [illegible] Yankee [illegible] . . .

Giants' flag chances have been hard hit with scrappy Dick Bartell, Gus Mancuso and Harry Danning all on the shelf at the same time and the Cubs due day after tomorrow.

RIP HERO IN SELMA

Danning is working with a bad ankle, however . . . Down in Selma, Ala., the No. 1 ball player is [illegible] Dizzy Dean or Joe DiMaggio but Rip Radcliff of the White Sox . . .

Rip got his baseball start [illegible] seven years ago and [illegible] good [illegible] a Selma [illegible] . . . [illegible] the Hoosiers open against Ohio State . . .

ARMSTRONG IN SUN

So Mike will try to put Armstrong against [illegible] N. B. A. [illegible] weight champion . . . Over [illegible] Sam Leslie of the Giants [illegible] a good day . . . [illegible] I told [illegible] that ham [illegible] . . . He [illegible] been [illegible] at the Midwick [illegible] . . . The Cardinals' star went hitless in four times at bat the other day.

What makes us suspicious of him is he already has doped out how he's going to beat Louis from watching fight pictures . . . Jim Braddock can tell him how that works out.

FRENCH SUPERSTITIOUS

Hirsch Jacobs, New York's champion horse trainer, thinks he's slipping . . . This year his horses have won only 92 races . . . A year ago today he had accounted for 1[illegible]5.

Larry French, veteran Cub southpaw, is superstitious and will not discuss his team's pennant chances . . . "We'll be lucky to finish in the first division," he always says.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer will toss 67 yearlings into the Saratoga sales beginning August 4 . . . Jim Coffroth, famous fight promoter of another day, is visiting here and can't get over some of the guarantees Mike Jacobs is offering fighters . . . The biggest house he ever had was $60,000, attracted by one of Jim Jeffries' matches.

Open Champ Flays 'Sportsmanship' Of British

New York, July 21 (US)—America's victorious Ryder Cup golf team returned on the S. S. Berengaria, took time out either to commend or denounce British courses and sportsmanship, and then headed for Chicago and the $10,000 open tournament which starts tomorrow.

Ralph Guldahl, portly American open champion, was most outspoken against golf in Great Britain. He said:

"I don't care for British sportsmanship if the conduct of England's players and fans are any criterion. The spectators rarely would give us enough room, and never cheered us until we made a mistake.

"I guess our Ryder Cup team reached its peak a little too soon for us to be very hot in the British open, but even if we had been I doubt if we could have done much at Carnoustie.

"The course just isn't fair. They had traps in the center of the fairway, 230 yards from the tee. The course penalizes good shots, and you have to shoot at angles to get by."

Guldahl, Denny Shute, Horton Smith, Henry Picard, Ed Dudley, Johny Revolta and Sam Snead all admitted that Henry Cotton, who won the British open, was a great player. Shute said:

"I did all I could against him in that special match but the son of a gun shot a 69 and then a 67 in the driving rain."

Farr Arrives For Title Bout

New York, July 21 (AP)—Tommy Farr, heavyweight champion of the British Empire, arrived on the Berengaria to begin training for his title fight with Joe Louis, the American champion, in the Yankee Stadium, August 26.

Farr, weighing 208, looked in prime condition. He expects to begin work at Long Branch, N. J., within the next few days.

"I'll whip this fellow sure," Farr told reporters. "I've fought nine Negroes in my time and knocked all of them out in less than four rounds."

Lifts Yacht Cup

Olcott, N. Y., July 21 (AP)—The Royal Canadian Yacht Club's "Aphrodite" took the International George Cup for the six-meter sloops back home by defeating American defender "Mist" for the second time in two days.

White Sox on Trail of Yanks

By Associated Press

Trying to catch the galloping Yankees these days is about as hopeful a task as trying to keep up with Gar Wood in a one-lung outboard. But you can't rule the White Sox or the Tigers off the track for trying, and both of them are trying.

The Sox, probably inspired by the smoke from Manager Jimmy Dykes' big black cigars, have won six in a row to maintain their place as runners-up to the champions, now six and a half games in front after drubbing the Browns in both ends of a double header yesterday.

The Tigers, encouraged by the promising recovery of Manager Mickey Cochrane, who for the first time since his injury put on a uniform during his team's morning workout yesterday, have won five straight since handing the Yanks the lone set back of their current road trip.

Both have been having fairly easy pickings the last few days. The Sox caught first the Red Sox and now the Senators in the throes of a losing streak, making it 10 defeats in a row for the Nats yesterday with a 4-3 triumph in 10 innings.

FANNED EIGHT

Thornton Lee, the big southpaw who could win only three games for the Indians last season but has been getting coaching from Muddy Ruel since coming to Chicago, gave up ten hits but fanned eight as he hung up his fifth triumph.

The Red Sox aren't proving too tough for the Tigers either. The Hub crew was up in second place last week but has hit the skids again, that ten-inning 10-9 licking by Detroit being its fifth in a row.

Even the fact that that Jimmy Foxx chimed in with two homers, his nineteenth and twentieth, and that Colonel Mills and Eric McNair came up with one each couldn't save the Sox. Al Thomas, working only one inning as a relief pitcher for the second straight day, lost his second straight decision while Roxie Lawson, who hurled only one heat for the Bengals, gained credit for his twelfth victory of the year.

BEAT BROWNS, 5 TO 4

The extra-inning virus even affected the Yanks, who won the opener from the Browns in the 10th, 5 to 4, then belted four St. Louis flingers for 11 hits to win the night-cap, 9 to 6. Joe DiMaggio's 25th homer, with two on, was the big blow in the first game but shared importance with Tom Henrich's peg from right field that completed a double play after the Browns got three men on with only one out in the 10th.

The other American League game saw George Caster go the route while his fellow Athletics bagged 15 hits off four Cleveland pitchers to win, 7 to 5.

The Giants, climbing back to within half a game of the rained-out Cubs, and the Dodgers, recovering from four straight trimmings by Chicago, also needed 10 innings to win.

Cliff Melton held the Reds to five hits as the Terrymen copped, 4-3, for their 18th victory by a one-run margin against nine defeats, and Max Butcher tamed the Pirates with eight safeties to give Brooklyn a 2-1 decision.

The Cardinals, striking veteran Guy Bush on one of his better afternoons, threw in a few misplays of their own and bowed to the Bees, 5-3.

Interest High in Yankee Stakes

Christmas Sweet On Rough Time

By JACK CONWAY

I AM CONVINCED it takes a major handicap race to get the noble handicappers as well as race goers steamed up. The wild discussions at Suffolk Downs concerning the $10,000 Yankee Stakes which will be run off on Saturday are sufficient proof of this fact in case you are one of those persons who insists upon documentary evidence.

MR. BOSTON

"It is anybody's race," said Jim Munroe with a judicial waive of his hand. "As a racing secretary, it is my job to arrange the weights so that the horses will be as near even at the finish as it is possible to have them."

I mentioned to Jim that he has been boosting Rough Time all year.

"Didn't I hear you say, Jim, that Rough Time is one of the greatest thoroughbreds you have ever gazed upon?" I queried.

"I stand on all I have said about Rough Time," answered Munroe. "Rough Time is ALL horse, and at a half-mile can beat any horse now racing. The Yankee Stakes, however, is over a distance of a mile and a three-sixteenth. Rough Time may be the winner, but he'll have to do some fast stepping in the latter stages of the race to hold off Heelfly, Clingendaal, Sceneshifter, Rudie and some of the other fast steppers who will compete."

"Rudie will be in there batting for the lead at every post," said Donovan. "I have not any excuses to offer for Rudie's recent defeat by Memory Book. Right now I think Memory Book can defeat any horse in the country.

"Memory Book won the Yankee Stakes a year ago and Floyd Bell [illegible] of course, cannot be a starter this year as it is a race for three year olds."

"Don't overlook Memory Book in the Massachusetts Handicap on August 7," advised Donovan. "Even Seabiscuit will have to step if he is going to win over Memory Book."

* * *

STRABO HAS FIGHTING HEART

DONOVAN MENTIONED Rudie's defeat in a camera finish by Strabo at the Delaware track at Delaware.

"Strabo is my idea of a horse with a fighting heart," said Donovan. "He has won most of his recent races in driving finishes. A scant nose has often been his margin of victory.

"It takes real courage to finish in front in those kind of races. I have always considered it a true test when a thoroughbred can come from behind in the stretch and win by a nose."

* * *

"Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's $30,000 offer was only one of those we received," said Donovan. "Gallagher, however, wouldn't sell Rudie. He gets as much of a thrill seeing his colors come down in front as young Vanderbilt does when his silks are on the winning horse.

"I guess that's why folks run race horses. Take away the thrill of winning and there wouldn't be any fun in the game."

CHRISTMAS LIKES ROUGH TIME

YANCEY CHRISTMAS thinks Rough Time will win the Yankee Stakes. The big horse was very short in his effort at Suffolk Downs last Saturday, but an extra week of training is expected to improve him.

"Last Saturday," said Jim, "Christmas came to me and asked permission to take Rough Time out of the grounds. 'For what?' I demanded.

"Christmas then told me that a van ride over concrete roads always wakes Rough Time up and makes him run better.

"Many of the horsemen have got this idea as a result of horses winning after they have vanned them to the track from Rockingham or Narragansett on the day of a race. Personally I don't believe there is anything to this theory. Horsemen, however, are a superstitious lot and if they win under some particular circumstance they will try to do the same things for a subsequent race."

This explains why Christmas wears a hat that looks as if it came over on the boat with Columbus. The hat is tattered and [illegible] but [illegible] was [illegible] he [illegible] a new top piece that he would become unlucky.

Boxers are often that way. Jack Sharkey wore for six or seven years an old pair of trunks he had on the night he scored his first important ring victory over Floyd Johnson.

Ball players will keep a lucky glove or a bat with which they have made a [illegible] hit.

The [illegible] have [illegible] lucky numbers and lucky post positions, their favorite [illegible] and stables, but they nevertheless usually end up [illegible] to themselves. They will probably [illegible] to form in trying to "dope" the winner of the Yankee Stakes on Saturday.

It is a difference of opinion and upsets that make racing the big sport it has become.

Ace Rallies To Defeat Teuton

By THOMAS C. WATSON

Universal Service Special Cable

Wimbledon, England, July 21 (US) — Don Budge, a flaming-haired dynamo who just wouldn't be beaten, staged one of the greatest comebacks in tennis history and sent America into the challenge round for the coveted Davis Cup.

Trailing almost hopelessly by losing the first two sets, the 22-year-old Oakland, Cal., powerhouse put on a "garrison finish" to defeat Baron Gottfried Von Cram, 6—8, 5—7, 6—4, 6—2, 8—6, to give America the vital point in its five-match interzone final series with Germany.

Earlier in the day, Henner Henkel had downed Bryan M. "Bitsy" Grant, Jr., of Atlanta, 7—5, 2—6, 6—3, 6—4, to square the series at two matches all.

When the blond Von Cramm swept through Budge for the first two sets of the crucial match it looked as if America would have to wait at least another year before challenging for the cup it hopes to regain next week.

MEET BRITAIN SATURDAY

But Budge, recently crowned Wimbledon singles king, was not letting America down. Suddenly finding himself in the third set, the red-haired Californian virtually blasted Von Cramm off the courts to put the match out of the fire.

Thus on Saturday on this famous Wimbledon center court America will begin her offensive to take the cup and saucer away from England.

Budge was expected to take Von Cramm easily but the German who fell before Budge in straight sets in the Wimbledon finals was an inspired player.

Von Cramm won the first set on Budge's errors. They had battled it out fiercely for twelve games—with a display of perfect control until the thirteenth.

Von Cramm won his own service in love figures, and then Budge became wild. The American [illegible] the fourteenth game and the set to Von Cramm.

THERE IN PINCH

The German didn't weaken in the remaining sets but Budge, confronted suddenly with his tremendous responsibilities, grew stronger with every stroke.

Budge's cannonading service, his accurate and dynamiting backhand drives and his fierce forehand smashes dominated the court for the next three sets.

The American aced Von Cramm four times in winning the third set and in the fourth he tigerishly ripped off an insurmountable 4-0 lead in games.

Von Cramm tightened momentarily to take the fifth and seventh but Budge was at his best now and he merely coasted through for the set and the equalizer at 2-all.

It was a determined Von Cramm who ran up a 4-1 lead on Budge in the fifth and deciding set, and it looked like curtains for Budge and America. But Budge's great fighting spirit and his amazing ability to produce his best tennis at the most critical times, saved the day for America.

Budge swept his own service in the sixth in love, Von Cramm obviously conserving his energy, and then, blasting the court with court with lightning cross shots, he broke the German's service in the seventh.

HISTORIC GAME

The American won a heart-stopping service in the eighth, squaring the score at 4-4, but the German rallied to take a 5-4 lead in the ninth, pulling out a thrice-deuced game.

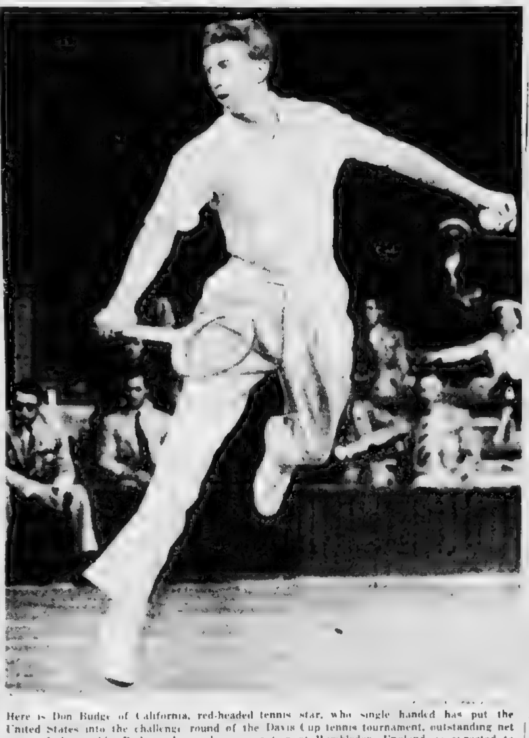
Budge levelled again by taking the tenth, 40-15 but once again Von Cramm forged ahead, winning his own service in love in the eleventh.

The Californian took his own service to knot the count again, and then came the break of the match. Budge broke Von Cramm's service in the thirteenth in love leading for the first time in the set.

Von Cramm's control wilted almost completely in the thirteenth game. He overshot the baseline frequently, and Budge won the game with a beautiful forehand passing shot.

The fourteenth and final game was possibly the most thrilling in Davis Cup history.

They fought bitterly to deuce six times, Von Cramm staving off point-set five times, and then Budge finished off the game, the set and the match with a streaking backhand pass.



Here is Don Budge of California, red-headed tennis star, who single handed has put the United States into the challenge round of the Davis Cup tennis tournament, outstanding net event of the world. Budge, who is shown in action at Wimbledon, England, is expected to bring the Davis Cup back to the United States when he faces the English team.

H. C. Captain-Elect To Play Second For Bourne

There is a possibility that Bourne will play the Boston Red Sox at Bourne on August 22. Bill Lane and Carl Gardner, officers of the Bourne Athletic Association, are attempting to get Joe Cronin's charges for the big military carnival being held there on that date.

Harwich's third sacker, Jack Oakes, formerly of Wake Forest College, is as neat a batter as [illegible]

Tony Plansky, Bourne left fielder, and the leading sticker in the Cranberry circuit for the last three summers, is out of the game with a badly injured knee. He hurt it last Friday when he fell over a small cliff in chasing a fly.

Holy Cross' Art Kenny, southpaw twirler with Harwich, lost his first game in four starts to Falmouth last Sunday. Art's fast ball is always trouble for the summer loop stickers.

Pete Herman's Barnstable club has done the most hitting in the first two weeks of play. Batters like Frank "Cowboy" Crawley, Villanova, Roy Williams, English High; Johnny Spirada, St. Anselm's; Guy Vitale, Colgate; George Colbert, Boston College; Bob Conway, Maine, and Fran Tominey, Tufts, are pretty hard to hold in check.

Hal Spinney, formerly of the University of Maine and pepper-box catcher with Bourne, sent his batting average up 200 points last week. At the end of the first week, Hal was hitting for 125. He's now slapping the horsehide for .326.

Shows New Zest for Game

Californians notwithstanding, Mrs. Marshall Fabyan, Jr., of Beverly Farms, Boston's own Sarah Palfrey of maiden days, continues this year as she has so often in the past to dominate the annual Longwood Bowl women's competition.

Many are the stars who have [illegible] across the national tennis firmament since Mrs. Fabyan first graced tournament courts.

Most of them have flashed for a brief spell only to peter out through the years.

But Sarah, a tried and true veteran with all her 24 brief years, seems definitely launched on what her family hopes will be her best of all campaigns.

Enjoying the finest of health after a year of married life in the North Shore social world, where horseback riding, tennis, golf and swimming are part of the daily routine, Mrs. Palfrey has mapped out a schedule of competition leading up to the National and Wightman Cup events.

MORE FUN THIS YEAR

It was just a decade ago that Sarah engaged in her first Women's National championship. Before that at the age of 12 she was winning girls' national titles.

Since she has been on one Wightman Cup team after another, has played year in and out in the outstanding championships at home and abroad and never has been very far out of the first ten ranks.

But she has made a radical departure from custom this year. Instead of taking part in one tourney after another she has thus far limited herself to play in the State Cup matches in which she as No. 1 player mothered a good Boston [illegible] and the present [illegible]

But this does not imply that she hasn't been active on the courts.

Instead she has been playing what she likes to call casual tennis of social nature, playing against good men players along the North Shore, so that while she has had the benefit of hard and fast competition, she remains fresh and rested as the major circuits open [illegible]

HELEN SLIPPING

She feels that the change of permanent residence from [illegible] the wonderful [illegible] year [illegible] at the [illegible] her [illegible]

She puts on [illegible] in Seabright [illegible] the National championship and the Wightman Cup matches, the latter in the event [illegible] selected as she modestly [illegible]

But she is laboring under the impression that Helen Jacobs, former United States queen, is far from well, that the latter's physical condition is hurting her tennis game.

Brothers, Sister Enter Hearst Regatta

Nell, Jack and Tom Cooper, one of the famous racing families of the outboard motorboat game, have entered the lists for the annual jousting in the Hearst Regatta, the big event of the summer water season to be held on the Charles River August 7 and 8.

Nell and her brothers, hailing from Brainerd, Minnesota, have between them entered every one of the many Hearst Regatta amateur classes, and with their background may very conceivably capture a goodly share of the laurels.

The Hearst committee sends out the warning today that entries must be filed before August 5 in order to be placed on the official program.

In the judges' stand the day of the big race will be Frank Wigglesworth of Harvard, Massachusetts, a veteran who has gone through every stage of yacht, and motorboat racing.

He has been commodore of several yacht clubs, owner of several yachts, and is well known from coast to coast.

Art O'Mahony in Match at Arena

Art O'Mahony, Irish middleweight wrestler who has yet to meet defeat in Boston, will clash tonight with Daredevil Bullock of Arkansas in the feature match at the Boston Arena.

Ted Germaine, South Boston, will meet Jacques Bernard in a 30-minute time limit.

Swamp Angel, which has been the most consistent feature winner at Taunton this year, will be favorite in the big Gold Collar Derby tomorrow night. He won his elimination race with ease.

Quits Job After Hitting 'Double'

Chicago, July 20 (US)—Paul McCaslan put over something today that many persons have been trying to do for years. He won the daily double at Arlington Park [illegible] where he is a waiter at the clubhouse.

Nearly sixteen hundred dollars richer as a result of his two dollar wager, young McCaslan decided:

To assure himself that none of the [illegible] which he won on Pett Laddie and Water Cure would be used to play the nags McCaslan quit his job and made plans to "hit" for some place where all a horse can do is pull a plow.

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

A Nationwide Organization Deovted To American Youth in Aviation

Wing Commander's Note: This is the eighteenth in a series of articles entitled "Giving the Army Wings," written especially for the Junior Birdmen of America by the headquarters staff of the U. S. Army Air Corps. The series deals with the day-by-day progress of a recruit in Uncle Sam's air corps and relates, in detail, his training at the Randolph Field Training Center in San Antonio, Texas.

ARTICLE 18

"Final Check at Primary Flying School"

The four months on the basic stage goes even more quickly than the time spent on the primary stage. Almost before it is realized the final basic stage checks are begun.

Our ranchman was quite surprised one morning that the flight commander was posted to ride with him instead of his usual instructor. He had been warned by his instructor about his propensity for getting the "jitters" every time he came up for a check, but it is very hard for anyone to take an examination failure in which will prevent his becoming the pilot on which he has set his heart.

He had, however, learned how to control himself and take a firm grip on his nerves. For the last month there had always been two or three waiting to go before the academic board for elimination. He had seen many fine young men leave the school forever prevented from becoming military pilots. Each of these he knew to be a tragedy. Most of them would have faced death instead.

The check ride started with a few landings, then eights landing for a mark and were concluded with chandelles and a few other of the aerial maneuvers which require great accuracy in flying.

The flight leader had checked him before but he knew this was the last. There was no criticism during the flight, merely a calling for the maneuvers one after the other.

The ranchman landed with his heart in his mouth, taxied slowly to the line. The flight chief stopped the engine slowly, getting out of the plane and walked to the back of the rear cockpit where the ranchman was sitting outwardly calm but inwardly too apprehensive to even move.

"You're O. K.," said the flight chief. "You need a little polishing here and there, but you are O. K."

The clouds immediately rolled away and the world was bright. Our ranchman repressed a yell with difficulty. He found it just as hard to appear calm when feeling elated as when apprehensive.

He had learned that it was necessary for a good flier to learn to think calmly and accurately without permitting his emotions to have any control over him. He quietly got out of the plane, walked to the locker room and removed his equipment.

He had passed his final check and had one hand on his pilot's wings. Next week he would go to Kelly Field, the Air Corps advanced flying school about which he had been dreaming ever since he had thought of becoming a flying cadet.

The next article will describe his arrival at Kelly Field and assignment to the bombardment section.

Breaking all records for enrollments in the summertime, girls and boys of eligible age are joining the Boston American wing by the hundreds, spurred to enlistment by contestants racing for 17 major awards and 10,000 other prizes.

This is the greatest number of boys and girls who have joined in any single day during the summer since the organization was established in 1934.

Up to midnight Sunday two points were awarded to contestants for each new member and during this week, the closing week of the contest, one point for each new member is being given.

A number of contestants are devising striking ideas in their attempt to win one of the main prizes. They have enlisted the aid of their friends in seeking new members.

It is not too late for other members to try for the prizes. Virtually everyone who enters is assured of a prize since five new members will win a Junior Birdmen sweater emblem while 100 new members will be rewarded with a complete set of Birdmen handbooks and a sweater emblem.

The main prize is the three weeks vacation cruise through the Panama Canal and a flight back from Los Angeles. If the New England winner does not care for this award he or she will fly from New York to Hollywood and have a three day vacation in the city visiting motion picture studios, Malibu Beach, Catalina Island and other interesting places.

Radioland Reflections

By M. E. M.

(While N. F. T. Is Vacationing)

EVERYONE knows that "the early bird catches the worm." Just let the early bird catch Walter O'Keefe and give him a lesson in chirping and it's news.

There'll be a great time in the old "Town Hall Tonight" at 9 p. m. (WNAC) when Patricia Ryan treats Walter to a bit of song-style schooling.

"P[illegible] one of radio's early[illegible] programs [illegible] late hours for bird- [illegible] when she joins the romantic three times a week for her mor[illegible] the voice of Jack Berch and the southern strains of the Dixie Debs along with the regular Town Hallers Alice Frost and Peter Van Steeden and his orchestra.

"PRINCESS PAT"

The Beauty Box Theater [illegible] proof this evening at 9:30 p. m. (WEEI) that American [illegible] makes a setting as an operetta [illegible]. Jessica Dragonette and Charles Kullmann as Pat and the Prince Di Montaldo respectively of the musical love story, "Princess Pat," sing their way through race horses and to [illegible] an amusing and high [illegible] romantic reconciliation.

[illegible] seems to hold in American broadcasting studios at some time they bring this time British commentators. Alistair Cooke, the columnist for whom millions waited last December in regard to King Edward's abdication, has stepped into the National Broadcasting Company tonight for an extended stay. He will be heard this evening at 10:45 p. m. (WNAC) on the first of his program talks of politics, books, travels and drama.

NEWSY NOTES

By way of coincidence Werner Janssen's first two guest artists signed for his radio programs were orchestra leaders who achieved their greatest fame as movie actors. His first guest was Dick Powell, who conducted a small orchestra before he entered the movies. His second guest was Charles (Buddy) Rogers, who led a band in college and later entered the movies. Tonight at 9 p. m. (WEEI) the name of the guest star on his program is Frank Parker, tenor soloist, who unlike Powell and Rogers is making a place for himself almost exclusively in radio.

From the theater to school, from the saxophone to the cinema, that's Fred MacMurray's history, all except for his sudden success on radio. This evening on "Your Hit Parade" at 10 p. m. (WNAC), he adds to the interest of top-notch popular tunes by acting guest star to Harry Salter and his orchestra.

FAMILY VACATIONS

Who says family life is dull? The Barbours in "One Man's Family" tonight at 8 p. m. (WNAC), find it anything but. While Beth Holly continues to keep her own counsel about the child she has befriended and brought home, Author Carlton Morse is writing vacations into the script. Beth is to hold the fort while Father Barbour and Paul are off to cooler climes. Claudia is leaving soon for Alaska. Jack and Teddy [illegible] des[illegible] for a trip to San Francisco.

Dr. Edwin Franko Goldman, famous American bandmaster and composer, will be feted on the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of his band and the Goldman Band's every night at 9:00 p. m. (WBZ). Leading music publishers will be present and Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia has expressed his hope to attend.

Word has it that Miss Dorothy Knox, featured star of many a New York radio program, is joining the ranks of the summer players in Cohasset. She will play a leading role in Alexander Dean's presentation of "Excursion" with the South Shore Players.

BASED ON THE COSMOPOLITAN FILM HIT

CHAPTER XXIV

He called the room clerk and asked him to let him know the moment he saw Miss Rogers.

After an hour's wait he called again

"Look here," Freddy said to the room clerk "haven't you located Miss Rogers yet?"

"Sorry, Mr Matthews, but I have not We are still ringing her room, in case she goes up unseen, and two page boys are busy trying to locate her"

AN ANXIOUS SEAT

Freddy [illegible]

"Can't understand it" he said, "Miss Rogers had a dinner engagement with me What do you suppose has happened?"

"Well, Mr Matthews," the manager said, soothingly, "it may be that the young lady met friends here in town After all she would not be the first young lady to forget a dinner engagement"

"Can't understand it," Freddy repeated

[illegible]

"I'll finish it by tomorrow" she muttered "if it's the last thing I do

[illegible]

"Confound it," Freddy finally exclaimed, "something has happened to her and I'm going to find her, or bust things wide open"

[illegible]

"She checked in about two-thirty this afternoon I haven't seen her since," the room clerk explained.

"I took her bags up that was the last I seen of her," the bell hop told them

"It was shortly after that, perhaps three o'clock when she left me at the cocktail bar, saying she was going to the hairdressers, and would have dinner with me," Freddy repeated for the twentieth time. "But" he added "I have since found out that Miss Rogers did not go to the hairdressers

"Now we are getting somewhere," the nervous manager exclaimed, "that proves something"

"What?" Freddy asked, eagerly

"That the young lady has disappeared"

"Listen we all know she had disappeared" Freddy said savagely, "now it is time to do something besides sitting here and gabbing"

VISITS POLICE

"I think the police should be notified There have been a lot of crimes about the beach lately," the room clerk suggested and the manager glared at him

"Crimes!" Freddy cried, in alarm

"That's right," said the bell hop, "only last Thursday night they found a woman's body up the lagoon—

"Shut up with that kind of talk," Freddy pleaded "I'm nervous enough, now How about searching her room?"

"We did that, I went along myself," the manager assured him, "she is not there Her bag isn't there, either"

[illegible]

"A relative of yours, Mr Matthews?" he asked

"Oh no

"Fiancee?"

"Well not yet, I hope she will be You see—

PATROL CALLED OUT

"Sure I see. Have a lover's quarrel with her?"

"[illegible] indeed, officer"

"She was good looking—"

"Good looking!" exclaimed Freddy, glaring at Osborne, "she is beautiful, extremely beautiful, glorious blond hair, gorgeous big blue eyes, wonderful complexion—"

"No room on this blank for so many adjectives," Peters said, with a grin. "What was she wearing?"

"Um—" Peters pushed a button and an officer appeared "Tim, get Fresno on the wire, get hold of the Chief, tell him he better come right over here Then call out the patrol and have 'em search the beaches, lagoon, everywhere around here"

[illegible]

"This is Peters," he said, "the Chief's coming over from Fresno, meanwhile you get out a radio call at once Tim has the description for you"

Married Comrades

By ADELE GARRISON

THEY MAP OUT PLAN OF ATTACK

CHAPTER 330

MRS TICER'S question, "Are you going to let those fellows stay up there?" made vocal a query which had been caroming around my own mind while she had been relating the terrifying tale of what she had overheard during her trip to the abandoned farm bordering our own place

"Even if Lawyer Billings is ready to swear they're regular Sunday school teachers," Mrs. Ticer went on, "I'll bet the state police would snake them out of there in a hurry, if you should go and tell them what they were up to."

My neighbor looked at me shrewdly

"But I don't believe you're going to say anything to the state troopers" she said then hastily apologized

[illegible]

FATHER SECRETIVE

[illegible] confidence in anyone more than he did in me

"But don't you suppose they'll want those men taken away and put where they can't do any more harm to your father or anybody else? My flesh fairly creeps away from my bones when I think how that feller's voice sounded when he was talking about your father"

The horror in her voice was reflected in my own soul but I forced myself to calm speech

"I know" I said "It is terrifying to know that they are there, watching our every movement, and plotting my father's death But then on the other hand we must remember that they are only the agents of the real plotters and if we can keep them where they are and after my uncle arrives deceive them into thinking my father is really in the farmhouse we shall gain just so much time for him in his secret mission

WHO ARE SPONSORS?

"Also we may have the opportunity to find out, through keeping these men within reach, just who are back of them. And that, I fancy, is more important to my father than either of us can realize

"I suppose that's so" she said "But, how are you going to find out anything about them when they're ready to kill anybody who snoops around up there?"

"I don't know" I said mendaciously, for few knew better than I how far my father's influence extended and how many men and organizations were ready to his hand I knew that as soon as we could get it in motion there would be a counter espionage upon the men in the shack which would be most effective

Health

Avoid Eating Poisonous Plants

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In a recent bulletin of the New York state department of health, there is a warning against the dangers of water hemlock.

This plant is one of the most dangerous wild plants in the United States It is said to have destroyed more human lives than all other poisonous growing plants combined

During the spring and early summer many children and even adults are tempted to eat the attractive greens that grow along the countryside The water hemlock is an attractive plant but is very poisonous, as I have said It closely resembles other varieties of the parsley family especially the carrot and parsnip

As a rule it grows in swampy lands throughout the eastern part of the country but is also found as far west as the Rocky Mountains. It has many branches and is covered with lacy white flowers A fragrant oil is found in the spindle-shaped roots clustered at the base of the stem. The water hemlock is also known as cow-bane, snake-root, spotted hemlock, spotted parsley, snake-wood, beaver poison and muskrat weed

When a victim partakes of the plant, violent contractions of the muscles, with dilation of the pupils of the eye, occur Severe vomiting and diarrhea are other characteristic signs

Whenever there has been poisoning by water hemlock, or it is suspected, a physician should be called immediately. Prompt medical care is of the utmost importance if a fatal result is to be escaped

It is well to bear in mind that there are other poisonous wild plants For example, severe cases of poisoning are caused by the wild parsnip. This is a tall, coarse-leaved plant of the same species as the parsnip that is cultivated for table use. It grows wild in waste places.

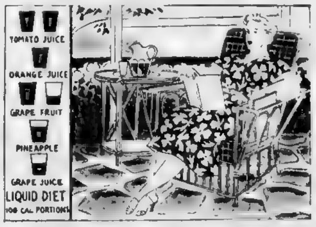
Keep a Young Figure



THREE-DAY LIQUID DIET GIVES A GOOD START

GET your girlish figure back It's simple

Loaf as much as you can on your liquid diet days Go to bed early, get up late. Take nothing but unsweetened fruit or vegetable juices, coffee or tea without sugar or cream

If you must be active, add a sustaining glass of skim milk or buttermilk morning and noon The liquid diet cleanses your system gently shrinks your stomach makes your low-calory solid menus satisfy

Doesn't your first regular reducing dinner sound good? Only 473 calories, too! One cup tomato juice, two small hamburger patties one cup buttered string beans one cup cole slaw with spiced vinegar dressing one slice bread, one teaspoon butter three-quarter cup Spanish cream, black coffee

Reducing's easier if you kid yourself a bit. Slice string beans lengthwise; shred cole slaw fine—it looks lik more to eat, Two thin slices of bread seem much more generous than one thick slice

You'll find a three-day liquid diet reducing meals for two weeks more tips to make slenderizing pleasant in our 40-page booklet Change Your Weight for Beauty's Sake

This safe and sane reducing plan, recommended by an expert dietitian is based on the famous Protective Diet It keeps you rosy and sparkling as you grow slender

Time to Stock Up on Toothsome Jams and Jellies

Try Southern Blackberry Jelly

By MARTHA LEE
FROM HER WEDNESDAY MORNING BROADCAST OVER STATION WMEX

WE'RE BACK on the subject of berries today; but this time it has to do with canning and preserving.

So many requests have come in for preserve and jam recipes that we thought many others might have similar interests at this time.

RASPBERRY JAM WITH CURRANT JUICE

1 pint currant juice
Sugar

Pick over and crush raspberries; measure. Stem, crush and cook currants (about 1 quart) until juice flows freely; strain and measure. Combine raspberries and currant juice. Bring to boiling point; add sugar, using ¾ cup sugar to each cup of fruit and juice. Boil rapidly until thick, stirring occasionally. Turn into sterilized glasses, seal.

* * *

We are indebted to the Friendly Kitchen for this recipe for Southern Blackberry Jelly, which many of you will want to try

FRIENDLY KITCHEN SOUTHERN BLACKBERRY JELLY

⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon mace

Wash berries add spices and cook them gently until soft stirring frequently to crush them and to prevent burning Squeeze through a jelly bag and put the juice again through a bag using a flannel one the second time If a very clear jelly is desired the bag must not be squeezed

Measure juice bringing to a vigorous boil, skim and add 1 pound sugar for each pint of juice Stir until sugar is dissolved Let boil rapidly for [illegible] minutes until a little will jell when dropped on a cold plate Turn into jelly glasses cover with a thin coating of paraffin and allow to cool When cool pour on another layer of paraffin and seal well

BLUEBERRY JAM

Pick over and wash berries mash slightly, and measure. Use two cups berries to three cups of sugar and mix thoroughly Add the juice of 1 lemon for each 2 quarts of berries Bring to boiling point and boil vigorously one minute over hot fire stirring constantly Add [illegible] cup of fruit pectin, mix thoroughly remove from fire skim let stand a few minutes to cool slightly then pour quickly into sterilized glasses

BAR-LE-DUC

3 pounds sugar
1 cup juice (squeezed from currants held in reserve)

Put juice and sugar in saucepan cook five minutes, skim closely, then add the pound of white currants and cook 5 minutes more, strain out currants then return juice to fire and boil until thick and clear Skim and strain through cheesecloth over the cooked currants then return to fire and boil just 1 minute Pour into sterilized jars, seal

BLUEBERRY AND RHUBARB JELLY

7½ cups (3¼ lbs.) sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice crush about 1 quart ripe blueberries Cut in one-inch pieces (do not peel) about 1½ lbs rhubarb and put through food chopper Combine fruits, place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice

Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin stirring constantly Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one-half minute Remove from fire skim pour quickly Paraffin hot jelly at once Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each)

Bridge

Trap Hands Pitfalls

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

North apparently had a good fit with both suits bid by his partner and had, in addition, persuasive honor strength and distribution

South dealer
Both sides vulnerable

North:
♠ 9
♡ J 10 8
◇ A 10 7 6
♣ A Q 10 6 5

West:
♠ K Q 5
♡ A K 2
◇ 8 4
♣ 9 8 7 3 2

East:
♠ 10 8 7 6 4 3 2
♡ 7 4
◇ Q 5 2
♣ J

♠ A J
♡ Q 9 6 5 3
◇ K J 9 3
♣ K 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ◇	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	5 ◇	Pass
5 ♠	Pass	6 ◇	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

South's bid though not robust was beyond criticism. In addition to a five-card major suit his honor trick holding, including plus values totaled practically three. North's two club bid was, of course correct, and over two diamonds his jump preference bid of three hearts was as good a call as he could find

When South merely went to game in hearts however North should have thought twice before making the five diamond slam try. South had shown no additional strength after his opening bid. It is quite true that he could have held a minimum hand that would have produced a slam with little luck but this would have involved the holding of precisely the right cards

On the contrary, he could hold a great many hands above minimum strength that would offer very poor or no play for a slam North should have visualized South hands such as the following

1 ♠ 7 5 ♡ A K 7 4 3 ◇ K Q 8 5 ♣ 7 4
2 ♠ 4 5 ♡ K Q 7 4 3 ◇ K J 8 4 ♣ 7 4
3 ♠ K Q ♡ A Q 8 4 4 ◇ Q J 9 3 ♣ K 8
4 ♠ K 5 ♡ A 8 6 4 3 ◇ K Q J 8 ♣ K J

All of these hands would be possible according to South's actual bidding, yet none of them would offer good slam possibilities. With Hand No 1 South would lose a spade trick probably on the opening lead, and later would almost surely lose a heart or a club

Hand No. 2 would be off the Ace of trump, and it would then take great luck to avoid the loss of a trick in either clubs or diamonds. Hand No. 3 would lose a spade trick, and later probably require both the heart and diamond finesses

Hand No 4 would certainly fail; a spade would be lost on the opening lead and a trump trick would be a certain loser Yet most of the hands listed are definitely above minimum bids.

It follows then that North's optimism over slam chances was not justified and, although South did not have to accept this slam-try and could have signed off at five hearts, or could have passed the five diamonds, the fat was already in the fire

At the actual six diamond contract, West opened the King and Ace of hearts, East echoed and a third round was ruffed. Five hearts, also, could have been defeated by a club opening West would win the first heart lead and give East a club ruff for the setting trick.

Beauty Hints

STOCKINGS are extremely sheer this season and lighter in color, too. That means that those little hairs must not be tolerated. They make a moire effect

A depilatory can be used to remove them. It seldom makes the growth heavier, which does happen when a razor is used. Or you can use peroxide with ammonia added and bleach the downy threads so they won't show Take a tablespoon of peroxide, add only two drops of ammonia, apply with cotton. It may be necessary to give the treatment several times before the color will be light.

DRINK plenty of water Exercise until you perspire. There's nothing like perspiration to give the pores a thorough cleansing This is a good beauty rule for the young person who is afflicted with blackheads.

Hot applications are helpful. They soften the wax-like plugs in the skin, help remove the black points and heal pimples if they're present. The less they are disturbed the less trouble they will cause.

KEEP the cuticle detached from the nail base and you'll never have hangnails. They are more a menace than most of us believe since they often lead to painful infections

Politics Control Market

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

The present is one of those times when the hopes and aspirations of opposing political factions find close reflection in the markets. As the group fighting the court plan visions success in various parliamentary moves, prices strengthen. As hints of a compromise are heard and rumors spread that the administration is willing to drop the matter until later in the year easier tendencies become apparent.

Until the matter is disposed of one way or another it does not seem that the markets will shake their present flightiness. Postponement of the whole issue would not be a welcome development since it would only mean that all the markets have been through of late must be repeated either later in the year or at the next session of Congress. At the same time business and industry in general will once again have to try and carry on under a new cloud of uncertainty.

* * *

There is a disposition in some financial circles to look on world monetary conditions as more settled. Especially is this so since the advent of a new French cabinet whose avowed aim is to straighten out that country's tangled fiscal affairs. In the first place there is a long road ahead of France before stability is attained and in the second she is not the only country whose monetary affairs are in an unsatisfactory state. Japan, faced with a near record breaking adverse trade balance, has instituted another monetary change. Gold reserves have been revalued to a figure 10 per cent under international prices. This gives the treasury a profit of around 800,000,000 yen and will be earmarked for shipment abroad to meet the strain imposed by the adverse trade balance.

* * *

There is no intention here of becoming an alarmist but the world monetary situation is still deserving of attention. And, unless we miss our guess, the markets will find plenty in such developments over the next few years to come that will warrant sudden moves either up or down. Readers should continue to follow the situation carefully.

* * *

Stock prices as measured by the averages have just about reached peak levels for the present moves. Up to now minor dips have been used for the accumulation of stocks. It is now suggested that such a program be suspended, even though the probabilities are a sharp reaction will not take place immediately. Rails and utilities are trying to contribute their part for the first time in weeks, but as indicated in the early part of this column politics loom large in the nearby market picture. And if after the sharp rise witnessed the news suddenly turned unfavorable prices could fade away rapidly.

The better action of utilities is in large measure due to hopes that the Court plan would be defeated and should administration tacticians manage to delay the issue many recent buyers would undoubtedly lose heart. Industrials have really risen in precipitate fashion and news or not are entitled to a correction. This may not come until after the development of a clearly defined top over several sessions. We expect it and suggest readers watch for it.

Notebook: Gorham Manufacturing sales are said to be substantially ahead of last year . . . Earnings for the fiscal year to end January 1, 1938, are estimated as close to $3.50 per share . . . Since the company's cash position is regarded as good by statisticians it is easy to understand why they also look for payment of nearly all the profits to stockholders . . . The first half profits of New York Central, the best since 1930, have gone a long way towards disipating some of the unfriendliness noted on the rail group.

RAIL SHARES RESISTANT

New York, July 21—Carriers and specialties displayed stamina in the face of declines of fractions to a point or more in other sectors of the stock market today.

Ahead fractions to a point or so were American Locomotive, du Pont, Collins & Aikman, Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Illinois Central, Delaware & Hudson, Goodyear, Motor Products, Mohawk Carpet, Consolidated Edison and Deere. Chrysler recovered after an early dip and went to a new high for the current move.

Down fractions to a point or more were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Macy, Case, Western Union, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, General Electric, Texas Corp. and Howe Sound.

CORN LOWER

Corn was lower, wheat narrow. Cotton was down. Bonds were narrow and off. The French franc and pound sterling declined.

In view of the fact the average of industrial shares closed Tuesday at around the same level as April 21, when the sharpest phase of the recent decline started, some analysts sought to reappraise the market in terms of behavior of individual issues since then.

Among industrials there have been conflicting trends. Stocks which show losses since April 21, experts said, were: Western Union, Chrysler, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Studebaker, U. S. Rubber, General Motors and Paramount.

Others currently higher than on April 21 include Montgomery Ward, U. S. Steel, General Electric, Caterpillar Tractor, Phillips Petroleum and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

In general, some commentators noted, rails, motors and rubbers are considerably below April 21 levels while metals, steels, oils, farm equipments and mail orders are higher than on that date.

CURRENT ITEMS

In the financial community attention was focused on news from the steel industry as trading opened.

Despite substantial backlogs in some products the seasonal lull in new business is beginning to affect operations, "Iron Age" said.

"However," the survey said, "there are indications the low point of summer buying has been reached, and there is evidence of an upward trend in orders at Chicago, largely accounted for by automobile buying for new models."

The opinion was also cited that new steel demand will make itself felt within the next few weeks.

Followers of power shares noted with satisfaction output of electricity had advanced to a new peak in the week ended July 17. The upswing represented better than seasonal behavior for this time of year, analysis said.

The French franc opened .02 higher at 3.77⅛ cents. The pound sterling was down 1-16 of a cent at $4.98⅛.

Research Into U. S. System

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

Copyright, 1937, by Universal Service

New York, July 21—Notre Dame University, long famous for football, is contemplating new leadership in economic research into the nature of the American system and how it works, it was learned today.

This has not yet reached the stage where formal public announcement is in order, but an indication of the type of thinking which animates the important new project can be gleaned from a pamphlet issued by Clarence Manion, professor of constitutional law of University of Notre Dame.

Professor Manion believes that those with faith in the American free enterprise system make a mistake in taking a negative attitude and merely opposing the builders of Utopias. He advocates an affirmative statement of why the American system is desirable for the man on the street.

Getting down to brass tacks, he pointed out: "In this country every man has a right to be protected against injury committed by others. I have a right to use my property as long as I do not so use it as to injure you.

"I may own a brick; it may be a gold brick or it may be just an ordinary red brick; but whether it is a gold brick or whether it is a red brick, I may not hit you with it. My ownership does not give me any right to injure you with my property.

"And whether that piece of property happens to be a factory, an insurance company, a bank, a bond or a brick, I am restricted in its use by the same simple formula: I can do anything with it I want to, but I must not hit you with it either directly or indirectly. Statutes regulating my use of my property are justified on the theory that they protect the people whom I may injure with it.

"The right to liberty exists today just as it existed in 1776 and we can never subtract the right to it from human nature without denying the divine origin of creation and reducing man's noble nature to the materialistic level of the beasts of the field.

"We can all be against child labor; we can be against sweatshop conditions; we can be for minimum wage laws and for the full and complete right of labor to organize; we can be militantly and progressively for the improvement of society by the ritual of more adequately protecting individuals needing better and more complete protection; we can be interested and active in promoting and bettering conditions of the masses, so-called; and we can be for all this without turning into Communists or Socialists. We need not depart from the spirit or letter of '76 in order to write into state and federal laws every proper and up-to-date protection for the rights of man."

"We are not just against Communism—we are for liberty; we are not merely against Communism—we are for God; we are not simply fighting Communism—we are for a government that is chartered solely to protect our rights. We are not against Communism—we are for democracy, as a means of granting to government proper powers to achieve that individual protection."

Power Production Reaches New High

New York, July 21 (AP)—Electric power production in the United States hit a new high of 2,298,005,000 kilowatt hours in the week ended July 17, the Edison Electric Institute reported today.

Production was 9.6 per cent over the previous week's total of 2,096,266,000 kilowatthours and 13.2 per cent above 2,029,704,000 kilowatthours for the same week last year.

The advance carried the Associated Press index of power production, with 1929-30 taken as 100, to 122.6, also a new record. The index, adjusted for seasonal and long-term trend, stood at 119.5 the previous week and 115.7 a year ago.

High	122.6	119.8	105.5	97.4	91.9
Low	116.3	102.0	94.1	91.9	80.2

The institute noted the following per cent increases over a year ago in major geographic regions: New England, 5.8; Middle Atlantic, 10.0; Central Industrial, 12.9; West Central, 2.3; Southern States, 10.7; Rocky Mountain, 19.1; Pacific Coast, 9.3.

Central's 6-Month Net $6,500,000

The New York Central Railroad is expected to accrue the full first half payroll tax under the new Railroad Retirement Act against its June earnings. This accrual will amount to approximately $2,000,000.

As a result the Central is expected to show a net loss of about $1,000,000, or slightly more than for last month. This would place the Central's net income for the first half of the year in the neighborhood of $6,500,000 compared with $9,864 in the first half of last year.

Fuller Brush

Fuller Brush Company declared regular quarterly dividend of 12½ cents a share on the class "A" stock, payable August 2 to stock of record July 23.

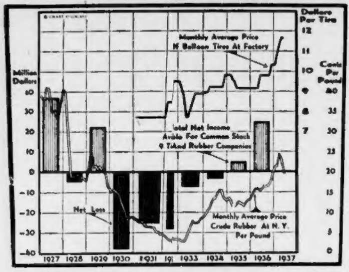
Tire Earnings Improve



Nine tire and rubber companies had a total net income of $24,800,000 available for their common stocks during 1936, the highest amount for any year since 1927, according to estimates by Standard Statistics. In 1935 these companies reported $4,700,000 net income on the common stock. In the five previous years the results were on the deficit side.

Two important price factors contributing to the improved earnings of the tire and rubber companies are also shown in the chart.

G. E. Sales Jump 43 Per Cent Above '36

Schenectady, N. Y., July 21 (INS)—Sales billed by the General Electric Company for the first six months of 1937 increased 43 per cent over those for the same period a year ago and profit available for dividends increased 58 per cent, President Gerard Swope announced today.

Swope added that the semi-annual payment under the general profit-sharing plan for the first half of the year will be $2,253,730. The number of employes eligible to receive such payments for this period will be larger than for the last half of 1936, due principally to modification of the plan as requested by employes.

The sales billed by the company during the first six months this year totalled $171,076,645, compared with $11,273,388 in 1936.

U. S. Treasury Expenditures Drop

Washington, July 21 (AP)—The Treasury reported today its expenditures, which usually total more than $20,000,000 daily, fell to $3,332,537 on July 19.

The reduction was due to repayments to lending agencies on July 19, these being used as an offset against departmental and other expenditures.

Bar Silver

Sears, Roebuck Reports Drop in Gross Sales

Chicago, July 21 (AP)—Sears, Roebuck and Company today reported a drop from the previous period in gross sales for the sixth period of the company's fiscal year, June 19 to July 16.

Sales totaled $42,035,960, compared with $49,097,436 in the fifth period and $39,841,752 the sixth period of 1936. While the volume for the period this year was 5.5 per cent better than a year ago, and a new record for the period, it represented the least improvement over 1936 figures shown in the current fiscal year. The mail order and retail sales organization usually experiences a normal summer deceline.

For the year to date, January 30 to July 16, Sears sales totaled $255,382,085, an increase of 17.4 per cent compared with the corresponding 1936 period.

U. S. Debt Study Is Made Public

New York, July 21 (AP)—It would take the working population of the United States 10 months, laboring seven days a week, to pay off the public debt with its wages, a research report of the Twentieth Century Fund said today.

With Sundays off, the report added, 11 months would be needed.

The committee that prepared the report—including Donald Richberg, former adviser to President Roosevelt, and James W. Angell, Columbia University economics professor—agreed the present public debt of approximately $36,000,000,000 was not a cause for alarm.

The British population, it pointed out, would have to work two and a quarter years to pay off its public debt. It would take the French population even longer to wipe out France's obligations.

"The American public debt may become dangerous," the report said, however, "if it continues to grow during recovery as it has during the depression, because the government's credit may then be impaired and an inflationary boom may start.

The report noted, and criticized as a trend in the wrong direction, a change in the holders of the national debt.

In 1930, it said, private investors held 69 per cent of the debt, and banks and insurance companies held the rest. Today, the report stated, banks and insurance companies hold 62 per cent of the debt.

The committee that prepared the report was headed by Oswald W. Knauth, president of the Associated Dry Goods Corporation. Other members were Richberg, Angell, Miss Joanna Colcord of the Russell Sage Foundation, George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, and George M. Putnam, president of the New Hampshire Farm Bureau Federation.

Taylor-Lewis PACT

AMAZING, SAYS FORBES

By B. C. FORBES

When one analyzes the make-up of the directorate of the United States Steel Corporation, the more amazing appears the surrender of Chairman Myron C. Taylor to John L. Lewis and his CIO without attempting to offer the slightest opposition.

Bankers predominate as directors. There are no fewer than three members of the house of Morgan on the board, namely, J. P. Morgan, Thomas W. Lamont, Junius S. Morgan. Another banker-director is Leon Fraser, president of the First National Bank of New York, founded and developed by the original George F. Baker, close crony of the first J. P. Morgan.

Among other directors not employed by the Steel Corporation are an insurance company president, the president of American Telephone & Telegraph, the president of Montgomery Ward, an industrialist, a lawyer and several ex-steel makers.

Here is a list of 18 U. S. Steel directors and their occupations.

Sewell L. Avery, pres., Montgomery Ward.

Thomas W. Lamont, partner, J. P. Morgan.

J. P. Morgan, banker.

Leon Fraser, pres., First Nat. Bk.

William A. Irvin, pres., U. S. Steel.

Junius S. Morgan, partner, J. P. Morgan.

W. S. Gifford, pres., Am. Tel. & Tel.

Nathan L. Miller, ex-Gov., N. Y. State.

Irving S. Olds, lawyer.

Ed. R. Stettinius, chrm. U. S. Steel Fin. Comm.

Myron C. Taylor, Chrm., U. S. Steel.

* * *

Next to John L. Lewis and President Girdler of Republic Steel, the man most talked about in connection with the industrial-labor situation is Mr. Taylor. The secret agreement he made with Lewis dumbfounded the industrial world, including, I understand, his own chief associates in the steel corporation. Never before had any powerful steel master allowed a union to dominate his workers. It had been accepted as definitely established that steel manufacturers would maintain their traditional stand toward unionization of their employes.

Criticism of Mr. Taylor and his unprecedented action, as voiced by steel makers and other industrialists, has run along this line:

"Mr. Taylor was not brought up in the steel industry. He is not essentially a steel man. His labor views were not those of other steel employers familiar with the industry's past. It is too bad he did not consult with fellow-manufacturers before behaving as he did. His conduct has only made it all the harder for the rest of the industry to resist Lewis' violent attempts to become dictator over all steel workers."

That Mr. Taylor will shortly retire to accept an ambassadorship or other high political office from President Roosevelt, is constantly rumored, although he recently sent from his French residence a direct denial.

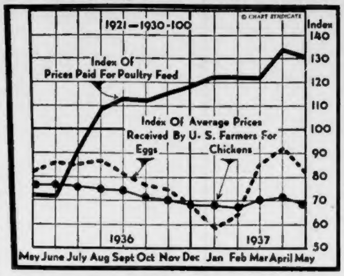
Trend of Poultry Prices



Prices for poultry feed in May were 30 per cent above the average level of the period 1921-30, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. At the same time, during May farmers received about 20 per cent less for eggs and 30 per cent less for chickens than in the 1921-30 period.

May prices for chickens and eggs reversed a previous upturn in these products. According to preliminary estimates, eggs and poultry prices in mid-June were lower than a year ago, with chickens about 2 cents a pound less and eggs bringing farmers 1 cent less a dozen.

Curb Price Changes Small; Utilities Strong

Lower among the industrials were Sherwin Williams, American Cyanamid "B" and McWilliams Dredging.

Trends in oils were mixed. Narrow gains were shown by International Petroleum, Pantepec Oil and Venezuela Petroleum. Slightly lower were Creole Petroleum and Gulf Oil.

Mining stocks were quiet, with Wright Hargreaves dipping fractionally.

Owens Glass Near 50 P. C. Gain in Business

Showing almost 50 per cent gain in business volume for the year ended June 30 as compared to the previous 12 months, Owens-Illinois Glass Co. directors approved plans for the continuation of the program of expansion.

Directors declared a dividend of a dollar a share payable August 15 to holders of record July 30, a distribution of $2,661,204. The previous quarterly payment was 75 cents a share.

Net earnings of the company and its subsidiaries for the 12 months' period ended June 30 were $11,856,193 as contrasted with $8,776,340 for the previous 12 months' period, it was announced by William E. Levis, president.

Chi. Pneumatic Tool $3,500,000 Offering

Public offering of 70,000 shares of Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company prior preferred stock (without par value), at an aggregate offering price of $3,500,000, will be made today through an underwriting group comprising Lee Higginson Corporation, Hayden, Stone & Co., Brown Harriman & Co., Inc., Goldman, Sachs & Co. and J. A. Sisto & Co. The stock is priced at $50 per share. It is entitled to cumulative dividends at the rate of $2.50 per share annually and each share is convertible into 1 2-3 shares of common stock.

Net proceeds from the sale, to the extent of $2,020,000, will be applied to the redemption of the company's outstanding 5½ per cent sinking fund debentures, due 1942, and the balance will be applied to the repayment of short term notes and added to capital funds for general corporate purposes.

"The company believes," according to the prospectus, "that it is prudent to raise additional capital to finance increased inventories and notes and accounts receivable resulting from a general expansion of the company's volume of business, and to provide against the reduction of its cash funds which it expects would otherwise take place over the next year, and to provide of $3 convertible preference stock and 335,320 shares of common stock, including common stock fractional scrip. Additional common stock is reserved for conversion purposes.

The new prior preferred stock is entitled to the benefits of a sinking fund of not in excess of $50,000 annually out of consolidated net earnings for the preceding fiscal year, after deducting dividend requirements on the prior preferred and $3 convertible preference stocks. It is redeemable at $55 per share through October 1, 1947 and at $52.50 per share thereafter.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company, organized in 1901, is one of the leading manufacturers of pneumatic and electric tools and similar products. Its operations are international in scope, approximately 43 per cent of consolidated net sales during the past three years having been made by foreign subsidiaries. Approximately 90 per cent of consolidated current net sales are made in the United States and the British Empire on a basis whereby payment is received in dollars or sterling, neither of which is now subject to exchange restrictions.

Domestic plants are located at Cleveland, Ohio, Detroit, Michigan and Franklin, Pennsylvania, with twenty sales offices or agencies maintained in fourteen states. Foreign manufacturing plants are operated in Fraserburgh, Scotland, Berlin, Germany and Montreal, Canada, with sales offices or agencies maintained in the principal countries of Europe, South Africa, North and South America, Australia and the Near and Far East.

MARKET Recovery EXPANDS

REGAINING LOST GROUND

By LESLIE GOULD

International News Service Financial Writer

New York, July 21—In this renewal of the bull market, now entering its sixth week—that is, from the time it hit bottom in June—stocks have recovered two-thirds of the ground lost in the spring slump.

This recovery in industrial stocks figures out to be a 12 per cent appreciation in market values. Rails have recovered about 10 per cent and the lowly utilities nearly 20 per cent.

That is a bull recovery at any time and it has come in the face of extremely unfavorable foreign news. These have been ignored for such nearer home things as John L. Lewis' setback in the steel strike, President Roosevelt's indicated setback on the Supreme Court and a brighter outlook for the fall, with the large farm crops a big factor there.

* * *

On June 14—The low point for industrial stocks on the spring slump—the Dow, Jones price average got down to 163.73. The close that day was just a little higher.

Last night this same index closed at 183.32, a recovery of 19.59 points.

At the peak of the bull market, reached in March, this average touched 194.40, and the decline took 30.67 points off that figure. Thus the 19.59 rebound of the last six weeks represents just about two-thirds of the spring loss.

On this recovery, about the best group showing has been by the farm implement stocks, which, with one exception, are selling at new highs for the year. About the best individual performer, however, has been U. S. Steel common, which has snapped back 26 points from its low. It is still 7½ points under its year's high, made in March.

Another excellent individual performer has been Philip Morris—the cigarette stock. This issue has made a new high for the year and is now 19¾ above the June 14 low point. Last night's close is 10¼ points above the high made earlier in the year.

As a group, the oils probably rank second to the farm implements in performance. Two issues in that department—Phillips Petroleum on an advance of 9⅝ and Socony Vacuum on a rise of 3¼—are selling at new highs.

Employment

New Low Employment rates: 1 day—20c per line. 3 or more days—15c per line.

Job Tips Always fill out an application blank for a position neatly. In many firms where an interview with the employer is not always possible, an application blank is the first impression he has of an applicant. If the application blank is scrawled and messy, the employer is inclined to believe that the applicant's work will be of the same caliber.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING IN YOUR SPARE TIME? The hardest job in the world is "doing nothing."

There are occasions when the days simply drag by, when a minute seems like an hour. It is wasted time, and cannot be regained, but it CAN be avoided.

If you would like to occupy your spare hours with an interesting subject; dignified, worth while, you can learn about newspaper advertising, learn How to Write and Sell Want Ads.

A few hours each week study and contact work and you can earn enough extra money to buy some of the things you would like to have.

Only applications from OUTSIDE Greater Boston will be considered.

Write today to K. Ryan, Field Manager, Classified Ad Department, Boston American-Sunday Advertiser, Boston, Mass.

The Forge-Fires

WHEN we complain of the summer heat and moil and fret at our jobs let us not forget those men in Philadelphia one hundred and fifty years ago who sweated and toiled in a killing heat in Independence Hall over the making of a nation—THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Those fifty-five men, presided over by George Washington, if they ever complained of their mighty task of drafting a Constitution have left no record of it.

They had no electric fans. In their high collars and their black clothes they went forward with concentrated minds in those torrid blasts that only Philadelphia knows at a work that we should call "killing"—a work of which our "air-conditioned" legislators in Washington today can have no conception.

"LET us make a better country of the United States" we often hear today.

BETTER THAN WHAT? There never was a "better" nation created than was made by those fifty-five men in Philadelphia.

THERE IS NO "BETTER" COUNTRY IN THE WORLD than those men made for us.

EVILS there are, naturally. But let us beware that in trying to "make a better country" there does not happen to us what happened to the man who owned the bear in Aesop's Fables.

This bear so loved his master that seeing a fly or two on his face and desiring to whisk them off with his clumsy paw he killed his master.

Let us keep cool and go on with the mighty work along the lines that the Founding Fathers laid out for us in the flaying heat of that summer in Philadelphia in the constitutional convention of one hundred and fifty years ago.

The Death of Marconi

The best commentary on the life of Marconi is that, at the time of his death, he was working to eliminate the interference of static electricity from radio reception.

To the rest of the world, radio is a marvelous and a COMPLETED achievement. But to Marconi, its imperfections were a constant challenge. We can wish, of course, he had been spared to reach his next goal. But it would only have been a stepping stone to further PURSUIT OF PERFECTION.

The fact that the inventor of the practical use of radio is ONLY NOW dead brings home to us how amazingly NEW this intimate servant of mankind really is.

It is so much a part of our daily lives that we almost think of it as a thing that has ALWAYS BEEN. We use it as callously as we avail ourselves of the most humble utilities of the home.

In olden times, a thing of such wizardry would have been reserved to the rich and powerful. But Marconi gave his magic to a world ready to devote it to the service of all mankind.

That is the best thing about the radio, that it has been utilized for the comfort, entertainment, amusement and INSTRUCTION of all the world's people, the poor and the humble sharing its amazing benefits.

It is a wonderful thing that Marconi lived to see radio achieve its present place in the world.

New Job Finding Drive

"WE'LL have to get business going first." With this statement the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, of which Albert N. Murray of Cambridge is president, has assumed the task of finding jobs for the unemployed of the state.

The plan of James Roosevelt, son of the President, to obtain positions for 35,000 dropped by the Works Progress Administration has been sidetracked, temporarily at least.

Murray and his organization are planning a statewide campaign and his ideas are set forth in these words:

"We can't expect to place these men and women to work immediately. We hope to develop plans in co-operation with the newspapers and other employers and organizations."

The Associated Industries should have the support of all business leaders in this movement.

Lehman's Court Bombshell

THE GREATEST BOMBSHELL which has found President Roosevelt's Supreme Court plan its target came from one of his most ardent supporters, namely, Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York.

Governor Lehman sprung a REAL SURPRISE when he announced his firm stand against the bill. The most pertinent paragraph in his letter to Senator Wagner (D.) of New York is as follows:

"Its enactment would create a greatly dangerous precedent which could be availed of by future less well intentioned Administrations for the purpose of oppression or for the curtailment of the constitutional rights of our citizens."

Fate Again Hits New England

For more than 90 years the line has been a connecting link between Fall River and New York. Driven to action by labor difficulties officials of the line were forced to announce elimination of service.

Haven of honeymooners and tired travelers the line for years was extremely prosperous. Motor truck traffic and the passenger automobile of late have slashed revenues.

'Burnie, Burnie!'

By Nelson Harding

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, July 21—More and more are established writers in New York seeking adventures in serenity elsewhere. Greenwich Village, once a haven for the scribblers, has few illustrious left on its roster. Gramercy Park, another rendezvous, is almost desolate of literati.

O. O. McIntyre

All sorts of writing colonies are burgeoning along the Connecticut countryside, where so many are finding residential escape from the extraordinarily burdensome state income tax laws of New York. Recently Frederic F. Van de Water, long city-bound, burst from his cocoon.

He, like Faith Baldwin and hundreds of others, went back to the land, bought an old Colonial house to refurbish, and thrilled to fixing it up. He happened to like a strip of land near Brattleboro, Vermont, and in taking it over struck "pay dirt" with the first swing of the pick.

That is, he found material for a magazine piece on the feud between Rudyard Kipling and his brother-in-law that made a big first payment on the house. And then sat down and wrote an excellent book on his experience in finding a home in the country.

Newspapermen who journey to Washington, as well as those stationed there, have a genuine affection for Vice-President John Garner. He is a rare combination of garrulity and tact. He will talk on any subject at length, but afterward the reporters find that on important questions he has told them nothing. He likes a good story, even a ribald one, and has plenty on tap himself of the sort that crackle with the drawling wit of the Texas pampas.

Will Rogers, who should know, used to say that one of the keenest wits in America was Bassett Blakely, of Houston, a rancher. Blakely, wiry, leather tanned, saddle bowed and with a prairie squint, has a sense of humor as dry as the native alkali, and his stories always convulsed Irwin Cobb and Paul Whiteman on their visits to Houston. A college man and sharp trader, he professed to be unable to read or write and talked in the idiom of the ranch house. But when necessary he could discuss any topic intelligently.

A group of the Palace Sunday night vaudeville fans eddied into the back-waters of one of those boring teas the other afternoon and to stifle the ennui began to formulate the ideal two-a-day program out of the haloed past. Finished, it ran something like this. Opening March, "Caesar's Triumphal." Overture: Victor Herbert's "Al Fresco." Act 1: Long Tack Sam and company, Chinese acrobats. Act 2: Bert Fitzgibbons, the original daffodil. Act 3: Harry Fox and Yansi Dolly. Act 4: Herb Williams, "Hark, hark, hark!" Act 5: Pat Rooney and Marion Bent. Act 6: Melville and Higgins, Rube comedy duo. Act 7: Sarah Padden in "The Clod." Act 8: George Whiting and Sadie Burt. Act 9: James Barton. And for the closing, The Zanelli Indian Club Swingers. Yet in skimming over the line-up we have left out many favorites. For instance: Sam Chip and Mary Marble, Nat Wills, the tramp comedian, Julius Tannen, the chatterbox monologist, Sophie Tucker, Mabel Hite, Collins and Hart, comedy acrobats, Eddie Leonard, the minstrel, Blossom Seeley and Benny Field and, Oh, yes, almost forgot, Marshall P. Wilder, and Marshal Montgomery.

A button-nosed nipper in the park, manning one of those spurt-up drinking fountains along a meander of the park today gave the dog and me a peach of a spraying as we passed. I went on, madder than the proverbial wet hen, but I'd like to turn back the years and have my turn at the spraying. At heart, always the squirt!

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

"Teen age youngsters—why are they such hellions?"

Maybe you're wondering. There are your own Junior and Sister. Such darling babies they were once. Simply Adorable. So cunning and good. Never the least big naughty.

Elsie Robinson

But lately—heaven knows why!—they have changed completely. Became Perfect Demons! Fly off the handle at the least little thing disobey, think that no one understands them, sulk for hours. One scene after another—it's driving you C-R-A-Z-Y!

Yes, Comrade Parent, this is the thanks you get.

All right . . . all right . . . get mad if you want! But I'm telling you the truth. As cradle-tenders, we parents usually rate all the blue ribbons. But when Snookyukums outgrows his cuteness and develops into a pimply, peevish adolescent, we all too frequently become petty tyrants—stupid, conceited, incredibly cruel.

BLOW-UP COMES

We proudly boast and honestly believe that "a parent is his child's best friend." But the plain truth is that most of us remain friendly to our children only as long as it suits our convenience, flatters our egotism and doesn't tax our intelligence. As soon as the association calls for real understanding and self-control, we blow up.

The late, great psychologist, W. Beran Wolfe, once said, "No adolescent child is a very pleasant companion, and often he is so disagreeable and stubborn that it is almost impossible to live with him."

With which statement thousands of parents will enthusiastically agree. But they should go further and ask WHY the adolescent child is not a pleasant companion. It is because he is facing the most critical period of his life—the racking travail of his second birth into maturity.

ON THE SPOT

Yesterday he was an irresponsible baby. Today he is a stranger, even to himself. Sensitive, suspicious and pitifully bewildered, he blunders about . . . seeking his real self, through torturing embarrassments and terrifying adventures. No wonder he's "hard to live with!"

But just where does all this put the average parent . . . the quick-tempered father who is accustomed to having his own way . . . the self-indulgent, sentimental mother who is inclined to dodge responsibility?

IT PUTS THEM ON THE SPOT!

It was easy to appear a successful father as long as one could achieve obedience with a cuff on the ear or a bellowed command. It was fun to be a mother as one could play doll-baby . . . buy one's way with kisses and candy.

But now parenthood becomes a real job. Cuffs and kisses no longer serve. Respect and loyalty can no longer be BOUGHT. They must be won!

How many parents are humble enough to stand back, forget themselves—watch, wait and learn? How many are brave enough to see themselves as their child sees them, in his sudden, ruthless awakening to reality? How many—doting mothers particularly—are generous enough to allow the child to make these decisions and experiments which are indispensible to character building?

NOT MANY!

Instead, most of us go into a prolonged tantrum of resentment and self-pity. Frantically we try to retain the old baby relationship rather than face the new challenge—and take it out on the youngster when we fail.

Then we wonder why the child regards us as his worst enemy rather than his best friend.

That's That

By Bruce Gustin

A Kansas sheriff has ordered members of the county highway patrol to arrest and fingerprint hitchhikers. The last state legislature passed a law making hitchhiking a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum fine of $100 and ten days in jail. This sheriff is taking the new law seriously, as he should, and is figuring that the lawmakers intended it should be enforced. Most laws against hitchhiking are dead letters, no real attempt ever having been made to enforce them.

Both in the public interest and for the protection of motorists who are too thoughtless to protect themselves, laws against hitchhiking should be enforced. This would stop a lot of aimless wandering on the part of people who bum their way around the country because it is so easy to get free rides. And it would prevent many crimes. Any motorist who picks up a stranger on a public highway is running the risk of being robbed or murdered.

We have more than half the monetary gold of the world and still our hoard grows. Gold imports in June exceeded 262 million dollars and were the largest for any month since December. As long as we keep the price at $35 an ounce, the inflow of gold is likely to continue. We have to take all the gold that is offered to maintain the price, and the price must be maintained to prevent enormous losses to the treasury.

The speed and decisiveness with which the lower House of Congress overrode President Roosevelt's veto of the bill continuing the 3½ per cent interest rate on Federal Land Bank loans and cutting the second mortgage interest rate from 5 to 4 per cent show what the President is up against in trying to bring the budget into balance. As long as he wanted to keep on shoveling money out of the Treasury, he didn't have to worry about Congress. But now, when he wants to economize, the House by a vote of 260 to 98, says it would rather help farm borrowers than try to balance the budget.

More than a million farm borrowers will be aided by the bill which the House voted to pass over the President's veto. All the members of the House face an election next year. And how they do want farm votes!

Destiny Nods

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

Among the colorful characters of New York is a little hawk-nosed Australian, who, by a wave of the hand, could summon an ocean liner to take him home, with bands, caviar, avocados and champagne to brighten the voyage, and it wouldn't cost him a cent.

Edwin C. Hill

There's no doubt in the world that any one of the big shipping companies would be delighted to provide just that kind of a free ride for Harry Bridges, on condition that he never came back.

The cagey little deadpan Australian, organizer of the 1932 maritime strike, which, with its general strike trimmings, tied up San Francisco in knots for a year, lands in New York, as a CIO ally, to swing East Coast unions into his hell-for-leather outfit.

For the last few years, searching the naturalization files in Washington for grounds on which to deport Bridges has become one of our basic industries. Here was one issue on which industry and conservative labor could get together without arbitration—deporting Harry Bridges!

About all they can find is that he filed his first citizenship papers in New Orleans in 1921, giving May 7, 1920, as the date of his entry into the United States as a deserting seaman.

GAINS POWER

He failed to file his second papers within the time set by law, but there is on record a new application for citizenship, dated August 9, 1928. He is supposed to have been a deep-sea sailor in the intervening years. Similarly thorough and intense has been the back-trailing of Bridges' career in Australia and this country, in the search for some moral turpitude which would make it possible to toss him back again in Australia.

This search, too, has been fruitless, and the acidulous little man with the razor-edged tongue keeps on gaining power, second only to John L. Lewis as a major factor in labor—as the industrialists and shipping men view their joint activities.

Sluicing out the "human side" of any big news story, one wonders who can say whether there really is a pattern of history, or whether it's all just chance. Assume that Harry Bridges is a man of destiny—for good or ill—and then note that destiny once hung by a pajama string.

In a sleazy back-street novelty shop in Melbourne, Australia, there was a skinny little clerk, a solemn chap, with little to say to anybody, slouched over the counter reading sea tales when there were no customers.

They sold ukuleles, among other odds and ends. The lad had to learn to tune them. He picked up a few cords, got interested and began whamming away in the back room. His had been a rather meagre life. Music stirred and agitated him. He longed for wider horizons.

One day the youth packed his sea stories, a pair of dungarees and his ukulele in a duffle bag and went to sea. He rode ketches around Australia. It was hard, dirty work, but he found time to sit on the forward hatch and bring up the Southern Cross with his ukulele improvisations.

A hurricane in the middle of the night set the ketch on her beam ends. The lad jerked loose his pajama string and tied the ukulele around his neck with it. Naked, he dived overboard and fought the boiling sea for hours. Time and again he was sinking, but the uke provided buoyancy to help him keep afloat.

NOD FROM DESTINY

At daybreak, Harry Bridges, dressed only in a pajama string and uke, was thrust ashore by a last sullen push of the storm.

It seemed quaint that a wet, naked little man with a ukulele, even this elemental Wagnerian setting, should get a nod from Destiny. But he did. He clothed himself, first with fresh dungarees, and then with power. At 38, he stirs left wing labor ferment, and angry and bedeviled ship owners will tell you that's nothing trivial.

In the corner is Joseph P. Ryan, conservative maritime labor leader, fighting Bridges for control of the Atlantic waterfront. Here, again, Destiny seems to have been in a whimsical mood. Twenty-four years ago, Ryan was a husky dock walloper, getting 30 cents an hour for a 60-hour week.

When the pig iron fell on him, it broke his shoulder, so, when he got out of the hospital, the boys made him secretary of the International Longshoremen's Association. He rose to power and leadership in the labor world. He had been an errand boy at the age of nine, when his father died.

Bertrand Russell is an able exponent of the chance theory of history. He thinks almost anything can happen, and probably will. Fate, Nature, Destiny, History, or whatever it is, stirs up some strange ingrediente—a clerk on the underside of the world, an errand boy on the top side, a storm, a uke, a pajama and a load of pig iron—to bring on her main event in the maritime labor struggle.

On the Nail

By Benjamin DeCasseres

"We congratulate you on the brilliant conclusion of your flight across the Pole to the United States. We admire your heroism and skill. We embrace you and shake your hand."

Josef Stalin sent the above mesage to the Russian Moscow-San Jacinto fliers.

But what will it profit a Russian flier to gain the plaudits of Stalin if he has no guarantee he will not be "liquidated" on his return to Moscow for stealing the limelight from the great terrorist?

Isn't this the same hand that shook the hand of Zinoviev, Kamenev, Radek and the eight generals? THESE MEN, TOO, WERE NATIONAL HEROES.

The love-story of Pocahontas and John Rolfe and of how the famous Indian princess of Virginia saved Captain John Smith from the ax brought $290 at auction in London the other day. It is recorded in a book published in 1615, which is about the year that Pocahontas arrived in England and became the first American social sensation.

But few Americans are acquainted with the romantic story of "The Pocahontas of the North." Her name was Ho-No-Ne-Gah. The Rolfe of this TRUE story is Stephen Mack, a student at Dartmouth College.

Mack is said to have been the first white settler in Northern Illinois. He was known as "The Winnebago Hunter." It was love at first sight between an Indian Juliet and a pale-faced Romeo.

Princess Ho-No-Ne-Gah's intercession with her tribe saved Mack's life several times and she nursed him through a severe illness. They were married by a wandering missionary and were promptly ostracized by the families on both sides.

A few years ago Rockton, Illinois, dedicated with considerable ceremony the Ho-No-Ne-Gah High School, commemorating the loyalty and bravery of "The Pocahontas of the North."

Three grandchildren of this Indian princess are living—one in New York, the other two are Mrs. Warren Plympton of Nixon, Nevada, and Mrs. Edith MacKin, wife of James Navarre MacKin, of Pontiac, Michigan.

Why got to Greece and Rome for our heroic stories? We have many of our own quite as thrilling and heroic.

What became of Louis the Seventeenth of France? This unsolvable mystery—one of the most fascinating in all history and which you will find done as only Dumas could do it in "The Chevalier De Maison-Rouge"—bobbed up again the other day in a despatch from the Hague, Holland, that "Henri De Bourbon," age 69, had died.

He was the grandson of Karl Wilhelm Naundorff, who died in 1845 and who claimed that he was the son of King Louis the Sixteenth and Marie Antoinette—the celebrated Dauphin.

The revolutionists claimed that the Dauphin had died in his 10th year in 1795, after being mistreated in a manner that would melt the heart of a statue.

But it is fairly well authenticated that some one else was buried in place of the Dauphin and that the latter was smuggled out of his prison by royalists. BUT WHAT BECAME OF HIM?

Naandorff was only one of the many men who afterward claimed to be the Dauphin. Some 50 years ago there was current in the newspapers of the world that the Rev. Eleazer Williams of Canada, who died at an advanced age some years before, was really Louis the Seventeenth of France. Williams himself wasn't certain.

History, it would seem, is a book written by some invisible Alexandre Dumas—it's all mystery and plot.

Many people do not like their names. But Frank X. Coyne, a Massachusetts legislator, is going to try to compel people to like their names. He has introduced a bill in the state legislature which, if it passes, would prevent motion picture actors and actresses from using stage names.

Thus dancing Fred Astaire would become Fred Austerlitz, glamorous Marlene Dietrich would become Mary Magdalene von Losch-Seiber and the stately and whimsical Frank Morgan would become Frank Wupperman.

But why stop at motion picture stars? Why not stop the sale of Mark Twain's books under that name? His real name was Samuel L. Clemens. The list of pen-names and stage-names is interminable. Name-lifting is much older than face lifting—and not so expensive.
